Kiwanis Installation Proved Huge Success At Governor Clinton

Harry N. Holmes, Field Secretary For the World Alliance of International Friendship, Was Guest Speaker—Officers Installed, Evening ended with Dance.

Whether the portents of misfortune that are popularly supposed to shadow Friday, the 13th, follow the old Jewish system and that traditionally unfortunate day ends at sunset, or whether there be some magic spell in the name Kiwanis that dissipates the clouds that threaten ordinary mortals, certain it is that surroundings and events at the installation dinner and dance of Kingston Kiwanis, held at the Governor Clinton Friday evening, showed neither track nor trace of the dread influence of the goddess of evil. On the contrary every feature of the program of the evening, from the opening course of the fine chicken dinner that was enjoyed by all to the spontaneous singing of a verse of "On the Road to Mandalay," which with genuine applause marked the conclusion of the delightful speech by Harry N. Holmes, and the hour of dancing which concluded the evening, moved along without even the hint of untoward circumstance, to the great pleasure and enjoyment of every one of the 95 guests present.

The members of the committee in charge of the affair, composed of past presidents of the club, were the recipients of hearty congratulations for the manner in which they had carried out their work and the success which had attended their efforts. Dr. Julius Gifford was chairman of the committee, the other members being Lucius H. Doty, Clarence S. Rowland, Chester A. Baltz, G. Wallace Codwise and R. Frederick Chidsey.

Zucca Shining Light.

Paul Zucca, as song leader, with Danny Bittner at the piano, fairly outdid himself for the occasion and in addition to his singing and playing added an impromptu speech, in Italian, which made the hit of his brilliant career. Paul introduced as the first number following the service of the dinner, the "Herpicide Quartet," composed of Kiwanians Sam Messinger, Robert J. Service, Edward W. Bonesteel, and A. E. Jansen and then added a second composed of the Rev. O. E. Brandorff, Harry Halverson, Clarence S. Schoonmaker and Joseph F. Deegan. Zucca commented upon the way in which the singers had answered the call to participate in the program as indicating the obedience given by all true Kiwanians to the call of duty.

The Rev. O. E. Brandorff, retiring president, introduced the many guests of the evening, the number including a delegation of 11 from Beacon, among them being Dr. Lee the new lieutenant governor of the district and Postmaster E. F. Cummings of Beacon.

A number of attendance prizes were awarded for the evening, to both ladies and gentlemen, and then the president read the following honor roll of those who had an attendance record of 100 per cent for the year, all of whom received prizes. They are: Edward W. Bonesteel, Lewis Brown, William B. Byrne, R. Frederick Chidsey, G. Wallace Codwise, William P. Glass, Harry Halverson, Sam Messinger, Chester S. Schoonmaker, Robert J. Service, Joseph F. Stout and Paul Zucca.

It was announcd that four members—Pearl Carey, Julius I. Gifford, Charles Snyder and George B. Styles—had missed but one meeting during the year. Frederick Snyder, traveler and lecturer, was presented, having been elected to honorary membership in Kingston Kiwanis during the year.

President Brandorff then introduced Dr. Lee of Beacon, new lieutenant governor of the district, who was to install the new officers. Before formally installing the officers Dr. Lee spoke of the pleasure it gave him to visit Kingston again and to meet so many of the ladies present. He referred briefly to the depression and the challenge it presented to Kiwanis as an opportunity for leadership. Kiwanis was organized in a time of stress, but today, he said, it faced greater possibilities for service than at any time in its history and he asked, "Are we going to be equal to the emergency?" He congratulated President Brandorff on the work of the club during the past year and the record it had made, after which he presented him with the past president's pin. Dr. Lee then installed the new officers: Howard R. St. John, president; Harry Halverson, vice president; Harry S. Ensign, treasurer; Clarence S. Schoonmaker, secretary; Morris Sauter, Edward W. Bonesteel, directors.

New President Spoke.

President St. John in taking over his new duties told of the encouragement he had received, while serving as vice president, by being told that he would make a "model" president, until he happened to note one day the definition of the word, model. "A small imitation of the real thing." Since he came to Kingston in 1925, having been a charter member of Kiwanis in Walton, and found here a live, enthusiastic club, presided over then by Charles Lasher, it had been his experience that the club had fully justified its existence. He had found that the motive behind all its projects was the genuine desire of its members to serve others. "No organization," said he, "can live unto itself. It must have some objective, must in some manner serve

Japan Says Hoover's Philippine Dangers Are "Nonsensical"

Tokyo, Jan. 14 (AP).—President Hoover's reference to the grave dangers of a foreign invasion if the Philippines were freed was described by a foreign office spokesman today as "nonsensical" if he meant such a menace came from Japan.

The spokesman added such fulminations disclosed a total misunderstanding of Japan's fundamental policies in eastern Asia.

"Before the Philippines are freed at least a decade will elapse in which Japan's motives in Manchuria will become clearer to the American people," he said.

Commenting on President Hoover's assertion that neutralization would be a feeble assurance of the islands' freedom unless America guaranteed it, the spokesman asserted that if the United States, Great Britain and Japan signed a neutralization treaty it would be "the strongest possible guarantee of the Philippines safety and independence."

Rewriting Ahead On The Farm Bill

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP).—Extensive rewriting of the domestic allotment farm relief bill was indicated today in view of assertions from Republican leaders that it could not pass the Senate in its present form.

As approved by the House emergency plan, for boosting the farmer's cash return on seven chosen commodities, to the pre-war ratio with industrial products found few outspoken friends among senators.

Many explained they needed the week-end to study the lengthy measure before reaching a conclusion. But others said without hesitation that the bill would need numerous amendments if it is to pass the Senate. Among these were Senators Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, and McNary of Oregon, chairman of the agriculture committee.

Calling a meeting of that committee for Monday morning to begin its consideration, McNary told newspapermen he felt that before the bill received a favorable report it would have to be altered to include all agricultural commodities rather than the seven it now covers—wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs, dairy products, rice and peanuts.

Under such a change, the agriculture department would be given authority to decide which commodities should be benefited in actual operation.

McNary, long a leader in farm relief legislation, added that he would support the bill "if we can simplify it, make it practical and bring it within the constitution."

Butler or Davis May Head Control Board

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Friends of Governor Lehman's proposal for a New York State Commission to inquire into possible beer licensing and liquor control methods today looked forward to the reconvening of the legislature on Monday night, hopeful that the Wadsworth-Buckley bill creating the commission will be passed at that time.

With the name of Alfred E. Smith definitely removed from the picture, speculation concerning the makeup of the commission continued but with no authentic word to support it. It was revealed last night that Governor Lehman had offered the chairmanship of the proposed commission to former Governor Smith, but the latter, busy with his own affairs, had declined.

The names of Nicholas Murray Butler or John W. Davis were mentioned as possible chairmen. The commission was advocated by Mr. Lehman as a means of paving the way for New York to take immediate advantage of any congressional action changing the prohibition law.

When these names were mentioned to the Governor last night, he smiled but made no comment.

Glasco Boxer Held On Serious Charge

Johnny Marello, 20, of Glasco, who gave his occupation as a boxer, was arrested in Albany on Friday on a warrant sworn out by the local police charging him with passing a counterfeit $10 bill here. Officers Fallon and Stewart motored to Albany that evening and returned shortly after 1 o'clock this morning with Marello, who will be arraigned later in police court on a charge of forgery. Marello has retained Attorney Andrew J. Cook to represent him in court.

Within the past week or so several counterfeit $10 bills have been passed on local merchants. Marello is charged with attempting to pass a counterfeit bill at the Ketterer bakery on Broadway.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan 14 (AP)—Treasury receipts for January 12 were $4,623,650.17; expenditures $18,445,586; balance $430,020,293.81. Customs duties for 12 days of January were $7,730,197.16.

Symphony Patrons For Local Orchestra

The following is the full list to date of the patrons of the Symphony Orchestra concerts. Inasmuch as Mrs. Gagnon, who was the official solicitor for the Symphony Society was obliged to leave town before entirely completing her follow-up work, there may be those who have not yet sent in their subscriptions for patrons tickets. If so they are asked by sponsors to send them in to Arthur C. Connelly, 293 Wall street, or telephone him, 937, not later than Monday morning in order that their names may be published on the program of the first concert which will take place on Monday evening at the Kingston High School auditorium.

REPUBLICAN MEMBERSHIP OF HOUSE TO CONFER

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP).—The Republican membership of the House will be called into conference March 2 by Representative Snell of New York, floor leader, to reorganize the party's congressional campaign committee and lay plans for the next Congress.

All but six members of the congressional committee, and including the chairman, Representative Will Wood of Indiana, and the vice chairman, former Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, were defeated in November.

The committee is composed of one member from every state that has a Republican delegation.

With only 117 Republicans in the next House, 28 of whom are newly elected, Snell and Representative Darrow of Pennsylvania hope to build the ground work for the recapture of from 60 to 70 seats in the 1934 congressional elections.

JAP POLITICAL LEADER EXPECTS TO BE KILLED.

London, Jan. 14 (AP).—Yukio Ozaki, veteran Japanese political leader and disarmament champion, left recently for home, the London Herald said today, believing that certain death awaits him at the hands of assassins.

The former constitutional party leader and mayor of Tokyo before the World War, now 72 years old, knew his "death warrant was signed," the newspaper said, because his utterances in the United States and London were construed as unpatriotic by certain fellow countrymen.

Chinese Opposition Sharply Increasing; May Revive Boycott

Shanghai, Jan. 14 (AP).—Chinese determination to oppose the Japanese at Shanhaikwan, in Manchuria or Jehol or wherever the Japanese undertake invasion of China appeared sharply increasing today. This was indicated by recent Chinese actions and reports appearing in the Chinese Press.

While the Japanese Economic League in Tokyo was reported to have called upon the International Chamber of Commerce, which will meet in Vienna, to denounce the boycotting of the nation's goods by another, the greater Shanghai Chamber of Commerce sought to revive the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods. The International Chamber represents a majority of local Chinese business interests.

Meanwhile the Chinese public in Nanking launched a campaign to "reduce food bills 20 per cent, sending the savings to the forces opposing the Japanese." Leaders of the movement asserted large amounts would be raised for the Chinese soldiers.

Grange Delegation Visits Roosevelt

Hyde Park, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP).—A final week-end of semi-privacy and relaxation was begun at the old family estate here today by President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt before starting southward to begin actual selection of his cabinet.

A full week of conferences on presidential problems and future cares put Mr. Roosevelt in a frame of mind for complete freedom today and tomorrow.

Just before leaving New York city last night for Hyde Park by automobile he received a delegation of the National Grange which is reported to have left a list of acceptable men for secretary of agriculture.

Of course, the President-elect feels free to pick his own cabinet members and will do so, but there is every sign that he wants to get the last word from agriculture itself. He followed this same policy on farm relief legislation, telling the organized farmers to agree and giving his support to their united ideas.

Just who the Grange delegation put on its preferred list is not known. It is understood that Henry Wallace of Iowa, publisher of a farm magazine, was one of several recommended for the post. Other names heard for this office include Frank W. Murphy of Wheaton, Minn., and Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina. The latter, however, has just been elected for a fifth term in the Senate and is believed satisfied to be chairman of the agriculture commission.

Senate Drys Will Fight New Beer Bill

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP).—Constitutionality of the newly drafted Collier-Blaine beer and wine bill was attacked by some of prohibition's defenders in congress today, despite the expressed confidence of its authors that they have made the measure invulnerable against legal attack.

At the same time, Democratic leaders began a study to determine how much additional revenue could be realized from the expansion of the bill to include wine as well as beer, both with a maximum alcoholic content of 3.05 per cent.

Continued opposition to the bill came from such leading supporters of prohibition as Senator Sheppard (D., Texas) who said he would make a fight against it, contending the bill still was unconstitutional.

"If it proposes to legalize three per cent beer it is nullification," Sheppard said.

Other friends of prohibition, including Senators Borah (R., Idaho) and Robinson (R., Ind.) have indicated they would oppose the new measure. But many Democrats were quick to predict the bill would be approved by congress and sent to President Hoover. The President has not announced his position, but many persons assert their belief he will veto it.

Two Injured When Car Hit Standard

George A. Briggs, 51, of Troy, N. Y., president of the Briggs Manufacturing Company, and Alex Robertson, 59, of Cohoes, were injured about 2:30 o'clock this morning when the auto they were riding in crashed into the traffic standard on Broadway at Railroad avenue. Both men were taken to the Kingston Hospital where their wounds were sewed up and they left later in a taxi for Troy.

According to the police report, Robertson lost one eye and it required 13 stitches to close the wound about the eye, while Briggs had 8 stitches taken in his lip and chin. The car, a LaSalle sedan, was badly damaged, as was the traffic standard.

Kerhonkson Man Arrested.

James Kearney, 70, of Kerhonkson, was arrested Friday evening on a charge of public intoxication on lower Hasbrouck avenue. He will be arraigned later in police court.

Captain E. L. Cashin Dead of Pneumonia, Well Known Soldier

156th Field Artillery Loses One of Its Most Prominent Members in Death of Captain Edward LeRoy Cashin, Who Succumbed Early Today.

Captain Edward LeRoy Cashin, one of Ulster county's best known soldiers, died this morning at his home in the Richmond Park section of the city. Pneumonia, with which he was stricken last Monday, was the cause of his death.

In a weakened condition from a heavy cold, Captain Cashin attended the funeral of Lieutenant Edward D. FitzGerald last Saturday, acting as first sergeant of the military escort from the First Battalion of the 156th Field Artillery. His poor physical condition was aggravated by damp weather.

Following the FitzGerald funeral, the captain took up his duties of helping to get things to rights at the new armory. He did not complain of feeling ill but his associates could tell, they said, that he was not feeling well enough to work. However, his enthusiasm about getting things settled in the new building kept him at his regular task.

Monday Captain Cashin was unable to leave his bed, having succumbed to pneumonia, and was immediately put under the care of a physician and two nurses, who made a valiant fight to save his life. Several times during the week, oxygen had to be administered so that he could breathe. Friday reports were that the captain was improving, the crisis having passed for the better early that morning. He became weaker last night, however, and succumbed to his illness this morning.

24 Years in Service

In the death of Captain Cashin, the 156th Field Artillery loses one of its most prominent members and best soldiers. He had an invaluable knowledge of military affairs which he gathered in over 24 years of service, including experience in the World War as shown by his official record which follows:

Enlisted private Company M, 10th, N. Y. Infantry December 19, 1908. Corporal November 14, 1912. Second Lieutenant January 11, 1916, mustered into Federal service, July 15, 1917. Transferred to 104th. Machine Gun Bn., November 11, 1917. Transfered to Military Police Corps, February 5, 1919. First Lieutenant Infantry February 19, 1919. F & HD. July 3, 1919.

Second Lieutenant Company M 1st Infantry New York Guard July 13, 1920. Second Lieutenant Field Artillery November 10, 1921. First Lieutenant Field Artillery August 3, 1922. Extended Federal Recognition December 20, 1922. First Lieutenant ORC. FA. October 20, 1923.

Mustered into Federal Service July 15, 1917. Platoon Commander Battalion Adjutant to November 11, 1917. Platoon, Company and Battalion Commander November 11, 1917 to February 4, 1919. Sailed for France May 19, 1918. Sailed for U. S. June 9, 1919.

Special Qualifications: Pistol, Rifle & Machine Gun Expert.

Battalion Gas Officer 104th M. G. Bn. U. S. A.

Third Corps Machine Gun School, A. E. F.

Nineteenth British Corps Gas School, B. E. F.

Field Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla.

Post War Record

His fascination for things military kept Captain Cashin in the service after the World War. He reenlisted in the local National Guard infantry unit upon returning to Kingston and remained to serve as a second lieutenant in the ammunition train detachment when the infantry was discontinued here. Then when the ammunition train was turned into the 156th Field Artillery, he continued, holding his commission. He was made a captain in June 26, 1924 and continued as such officer in command of Battery A until October 22, 1930. The rating as captain in field artillery was received after a course at Ft. Sill, Oklahoma.

Upon retiring as an active officer in the 156th Field Artillery in 1930, Captain Cashin was made a member of the Officers Reserve Corps, being commissioned a captain in the 442nd Field Artillery, O. R. C. on February 17, 1931.

Although he relinquished his post as captain of Battery A, Captain Cashin did not discontinue his service. He remained in the 156th Field Artillery as first sergeant of Headquarters Battery commanded by Captain Carlton S. Preston.

Heavy Loss to Armory.

The demise of Captain Cashin puts a veil of sorrow over the new armory, where he will be greatly missed by the National Guardsmen and armory employes who admired his manly spirit, his soldierly manner and kind consideration for his associates. His death, and that of Lieutenant Edward D. FitzGerald, one of his closest friends, are two of the heaviest losses that could be put upon the 156th Field Artillery.

Captain Cashin, who was 43 years of age, having been born on August 30, 1890, is survived by his wife; his father, William D. Cashin; two sisters, Olive L. and M. Gladys Cashin; two brothers, William D., Jr., and Jerome B. Cashin.

Funeral will be held from his late home on Lenox street in Richmond Park, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, thence to St. Mary's Church, where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Fraternally Captain Cashin was a charter member of Kingston Post, American Legion, and of the Company M Veterans' Association.

$136,000 Bond Issues Approved by Council

On Assurance of Mayor Carey That at Least $100,000 Would Be Spent for Wages, Republican Aldermen Voted in Favor of Ordinance—Former Mayor Canfield Speaks for Unemployed—Council Chamber Filled to Capacity.

Meeting in special session Friday evening the common council voted unanimously in favor of two bond issues totaling $136,000, of which amount $100,000 is to be expended for emergency work relief and the remaining $36,000 is for the board of public works to carry out its unfinished 1932 street program. The council chamber was jammed with men, the majority of whom were unemployed, who had gathered at the city hall to see what action was taken. There were no expected fireworks, however, for the aldermen had met with Mayor Carey previous to the meeting and at that time the entire situation was threshed out.

At this meeting with the mayor prior to the calling of the special session Mayor Carey and members of the emergency work relief committee assured the aldermen that at least $100,000 would be expended for wages and possibly more by using the refunds received from the state. With this assurance the Republican aldermen stated they were willing to vote in favor of the bond issue.

In the absence of President C. J. Heiselman, who is confined to his home on West Chestnut street with an attack of flu, Alderman Ray Haines was elected presiding officer, and from that point on the meeting moved swiftly to its close. A resolution to reconsider the previous vote on the bond issues was adopted and the bond issues referred to the laws and rules committee and the finance committee, and a recess taken to give the committees an opportunity to submit a report.

The two committees submitted favorable reports on both bond issues.

Schwenk's Resolution.

Alderman Schwenk introduced the following resolution which was seconded by Alderman Relyea: "In the interest of harmony and to avoid further dissension in the board of aldermen which subjects Kingston to unfavorable publicity, I move the adoption of the mayor's original ordinance calling for $100,000 bond issue and hold the work relief bureau entirely responsible for the distribution of the same."

The resolution was adopted as well as the two ordinances adopting the bond issues.

Mr. Canfield Speaks.

Presiding Officer Haines said that former Mayor Palmer Canfield was present and would like to be extended the privilege of the floor. The privilege was granted and as Mr. Canfield arose from his seat in the audience he was greeted with hearty applause. He said that the unemployed men of Kingston were not asking for charity, what they wanted was work. He said he believed the common council should be commended for joining hands in this matter. Mr. Canfield said that there was no doubt but that the correct way to finance work relief was by a bond issue. Tuesday night, he said, some of the unemployed men had met and asked him to represent them at the meeting that evening to try and arrange some sort of a solution of the problem. "They are satisfied with the action taken tonight and in behalf of the unemployed of the city I want to express to you their thanks. You aldermen have done a good job here tonight," he concluded.

A Drive-In Gas Station.

John M. DeWitt filed a petition asking that the zoning law be amended so that he could erect a drive-in gas station at Clinton avenue and Pearl street. It was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Mayor Carey's Requests.

Mayor Carey submitted two recommendations which were adopted by the council. The first was that Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Conway be asked to draft a bill permitting the city to pay the county taxes in two installments, and the other was to have the state comptroller send a representative here to arrange for the installation of a new system of accounting similar to that used in other third class cities.

The council then adjourned.

No New Developments In Cotter Robbery

Investigating Clue That Bandits Had Been Visiting in Tucker's Corners Last Summer.

There were no new developments today in the Cotter robbery case near Tucker's Corners in the town of Plattekill, although State Troopers and Sheriff Saxe are continuing their investigation into the matter. Efforts are being made to ascertain if the four men who robbed and beat up John Cottter and his sister, Mary Cotter, Thursday afternoon, left finger prints on any of the property about the premises which they ransacked and made away with $2,080 in cash.

Thursday afternoon four men appeared at the Cotter place and demanded that they be given gasoline. When informed there was none on the premises they demanded hot coffee and then proceeded to assault and beat up Miss Cotter and after tying her to a chair they ransacked the house and carried away the money which they found in the house. At the barn they assaulted John Cotter, tied him up and scorched his hands and feet in an effort to learn if there was more money about the place. The men then disappeared in a Chevrolet car.

Half an hour later Miss Cotter was able to gain her freedom and gave the alarm.

That the four men, evidently of Italian extraction, may have been visitors in the locality last summer and learned of the habit of the Cotters in keeping money in the house is being investigated. The men were strangers to the couple but evidently knew of the large sum of money in the house for after her refusal to disclose the hiding place of the $2,000 after they had found $80, the men made a systematic search of the house and finally located the $2,000 in a closet upstairs.

To Kill President's Plan For Regrouping

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP).—President Hoover's program for regrouping 58 government agencies and the elimination of some others will be killed by the House next week.

This was decided at a caucus of House Democrats who voted unanimously to support the Cochran resolution for this purpose when it comes up next week after passage of the War Department appropriation bill.

The Democrats plan to give President-elect Roosevelt wide powers of government reorganization in the interests of economy. Legislation to this end has been attached to an appropriation bill now in the Senate.

The Democratic caucus was held late yesterday, the first one of the present session. Since the Democrats control the House and action by only one branch of Congress is necessary there appeared to be no hope that Mr. Hoover's program could be put through.

Senate to Act Monday On Philippine Bill

Washington, Jan. 14 (AP).—Philippine independence today depended upon a two-thirds Senate vote to override President Hoover's veto—a vote which leaders declined definitely to forecast.

Even after sponsors had canvassed both parties they remained uncertain as to the outcome when the question of turning down the presidential veto is put to the Senate Monday.

One of the authors, however, expressed confidence the Senate would follow the House which late yesterday voted by the overwhelming majority of 274 to 94 to override the veto. He was Senator Hawes (D., Mo.) but even he conceded the vote would be close. Within two hours after Mr. Hoover had rejected the bill to free the Philippines at the end of a ten-year trial period, the House Democrats mustered 191 of their number to add to the favorable votes of 82 Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite.

PREPARING TO OPEN BOYS' SUIT DEPARTMENT

Held On Murder Charge

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Samuel Varisco, 32, Republican committeeman of the 27th Ward, was being held by police early today charged with first degree murder following the fatal shooting last night of Angelo Porello, 25, in a revolver battle. The shooting resulted from an argument over a pool game 24 hours before.

Two New Style Leaders

THE 1933 OLDSMOBILES

PRICES REDUCED $130 TO $145

A Roomier more Powerful Six $745 ☆ A Larger more Luxurious Eight $845

NEW! . . . Two motor cars entirely different from anything you ever saw. New radiators—lamps—hoods—windshields. New fenders and wheels. New rear contours. Symmetrical new design from end to end. And with style leadership, these 1933 Oldsmobiles also bring you every other desirable quality—at the lowest prices in ten years.

Larger—Roomier—More Powerful

The new Six is a roomier, more comfortable car . . . the Eight is larger and finer in every respect. Both are extremely brilliant performers. And progressive engineering has still further increased the dependability for which Oldsmobile is famous.

The Six engine is larger and develops 80 h.p. —while the Eight has been increased to 90 h.p. As a result, the new Six will do from 75 to 80, the Eight from 80 to 85—actual stop-watch miles per hour.

Engines Cradled in Rubber

The new Oldsmobile engines are cushioned on a three-point rubber mounting of new scientific design. This mounting is the most successful yet perfected, and overcomes all sensation of effort or vibration from the source of power.

Lower, Sturdier Chassis

In both the new Six and Straight Eight, Oldsmobile has employed a special double-drop X-type frame which greatly strengthens the chassis and provides unusual driving stability. By permitting a substantial reduction in the car's height, the new frame contributes also to the pleasing new body lines.

Fisher No Draft Ventilation

Outwardly and inwardly, Oldsmobile's new Fisher bodies offer many important refinements. For instance, the revolutionary new Fisher No Draft Ventilation, Individually-Controlled, is built into all closed models.

Demand Balanced Excellence!

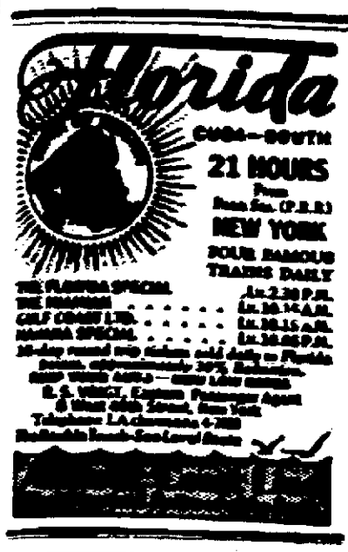

Don't compromise, this year! Demand style, performance, and durability, at prices which represent top value. The new Oldsmobile Six and Eight—two outstanding General Motors values—offer you balanced excellence in everything essential to motoring pleasure, comfort and satisfaction.

The 1933 Oldsmobile Sixes range in price from $745—the Eights from $845—f. o. b. Lansing. Bumpers and spare tires are extra. Convenient G.M.A.C. time payment plan.

HOW

OIL IN THE AUTO MOTOR LUBRICATES THE PARTS.—The little molecules in the oil do the work. The difference between the heads and tails of chemical molecules in such lubricants is being used to make better oils. As explained by W. E. Campbell of the Bell Telephone laboratories, in a recent issue of that institution's monthly Record, the molecules of oily substances frequently consist of long chain-like groups of atoms linked together almost like the segments of a worm. These molecules often have more active groups of atoms at one end than at the other, like the suckers at the worm's head. When one of these chain-molecule oils is put between the metal surfaces of a bearing, it is pointed out, the chemically more active atoms at the head of the molecule are attracted to the metal surface and stick tightly to it, so that there is formed a thick mat of the worm-like molecules, while its less active tail waves loosely in space. Since these thick mats of clustered molecular worms form instantly on both metal surfaces, the bearing really rides on the loose tail ends of the two sets of molecules. In this way the oil acts to reduce friction. And by using oils containing more of these head and tail molecules better lubricants are being produced.

How to Compute Size of Hat Without Size Ring

The number used to designate the size of a hat represents the average of the length and width of the crown in inches. One can roughly compute the size of any hat without recourse to a regular size ring by measuring the length and width of the crown, adding these two figures and dividing the result by two. The numbers do not always correspond exactly to the sizes because hat blocks vary considerably and hats often stretch with wear. Theoretically, however, the number denoting the size of a hat may be regarded as the diameter of a circle equal to the oval of the crown. Hat sizes have not been standardized throughout the countries of the world and the American, British, French and Spanish systems of numbering hats differ considerably. British head sizes differ from American by only one size. For instance, an English hat numbered 7 is actually as large as an American hat numbered 7¼. This is due to the fact that the British cover their hat blocks with a felt cover which makes a difference of one size.

How Frog Aided Science

The scientific study of animal electricity, according to the commonly accepted story, began accidentally. Luigi Galvani, professor of anatomy in the University of Bologna, on September 20, 1786, was having his supper of frogs' legs on the roof of his house. The hind legs of a frog had been hung up by a copper hook on the iron railing which surrounded the roof. Galvani noticed that each time the breeze blew the toes against one of the rails, the legs twitched. He at once concluded that this was an exhibition of animal electricity; but his colleague, Alessandro Volta, professor of natural philosophy at Pavia, proved conclusively that in this case electricity was produced at the junction of the two dissimilar metals, copper and iron. When the frog's toes touched the railings a circuit was closed through hook, railings and legs, with the result that, as the muscles of the legs still were alive, they were stimulated to twitch each time the circuit was completed.

How Far Smoke Travels

The forest service says that the distance to which the smoke of a forest fire will travel depends of course on the size and duration of the fire. In 1910 there was a great fire in the Rocky mountain region of Idaho, which covered over two and one-half million acres and which burned for several weeks. Smoke from this fire was seen over the North Central states as far east as Ohio, a distance of more than 2,000 miles, and in some portions of the Middle West actually necessitated the use of artificial light during the daytime.

How Seals Are Protected

The fur seals of the North Pacific ocean are protected by the North Pacific Seal convention of July 7, 1911, among the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia. This applies specifically to the killing of fur seals in their breeding grounds, since they are not customarily taken or hunted on the high seas.

And One Nose, Too

A noted medical publicist insists there is no such ailment as "common cold." We shall continue to carry handkerchiefs, however, while our imagination is running wild.—Detroit News.

Harrison Died One Month After His Inauguration

In the long list of governors of Indiana no name has left a greater imprint on the country than that of William Henry Harrison, the first territorial governor.

An active career as soldier, statesman and pioneer ended in the White House, where he died April 4, 1841, one month after his inauguration. Born in Berkeley, Va., February 9, 1773, he chose the army for a career after receiving a medical education.

In 1798 he was appointed secretary of the Northwest territory under Gen. St. Clair, and then went to congress as territorial representative. On July 4, 1800, when Indian territory was organized, Harrison became the first territorial governor. At one period, when the Louisiana purchase was appended to Indiana, Harrison ruled a vast domain.

First as a major-general of Kentucky volunteers, then as a major-general of the regular army, Harrison participated in the war of 1812. As protector of the Northwest he invaded Canada and won the battle of the Thames October 5, 1813.

Retiring to his farm at North Bend at the close of the war, he was elected to congress from Ohio, then he served two years as state senator and in 1830 was defeated for the governorship. Four years later, however, he was sent to the United States senate, and resigned in 1828 to become minister to Colombia.

In 1835 he won the Presidential nomination but was defeated. Four years later, however, he was nominated by the Whigs and with the stirring slogan, "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too" was swept into the White House.

When Ship Little Belt Was Made to Understand

British cruisers hovering about our coast had captured many American vessels bound for France and had made a number of impressments. In May, 1811, Commodore John Rodgers, commanding the American frigate President, was ordered to put to sea from Chesapeake bay and protect our commerce. When 30 miles off Cape Charles, May 16, Rodgers descried a vessel which he supposed to be the British man-of-war Guerriere. He approached her and made inquiries regarding impressment. This vessel was the Little Belt, a small British frigate. She showed no colors and sailed away, the President pursuing. Overhauling her about eight o'clock, Rodgers declared she ran up colors which could not be recognized for the darkness, and fired upon the President. The fire was immediately returned, and the Little Belt was disabled in about eighteen minutes. The dispute as to which was in fault was never settled.

Elements in Human Body

It has been estimated that if all the chemical elements composing an average human body were isolated and sold at commercial prices they would be worth between 75 cents and a dollar. The actual percentages of elements in the body are given as follows: Oxygen, 65; carbon, 18; hydrogen, 10; nitrogen, 3; calcium, 1.5; phosphorus, 1; potassium, 0.35; sulphur, 0.25; sodium, 0.15; chlorine, 0.15; magnesium, 0.05; iron, 0.004; iodine 0.00004. There are also minute quantities of fluorine, silicon, manganese, zinc, copper, aluminum and possibly also arsenic. Another estimate bases the value of the average adult on the following composition: one-quarter ounce of iron, one-fifth ounce of sugar, 24 pounds of coal (carbon), 10 gallons of water, one drop tincture of iron, 1.8 pounds of phosphorus, 7 pounds lime.

Barnum Once Jailed

Phineas T. Barnum, pioneer showman, who made the famous statement that "one is born every minute" in expressing his contempt of a gullible public, once served 60 days in jail for a libel printed in a paper in Danbury, Conn., which he edited. His showmanship activities began when he was but twenty-four years old. At that time he bought a colored woman reputed to be the nurse of George Washington and exhibited her as Washington's nurse. This venture yielded him a surprisingly big income and launched him on the career which made him famous the world over.

Homer's Birthplace

A Turkish archeologist, jealously guarding ancient documents of his discovery, claims to have settled the dispute of centuries as to Homer's birthplace.

Selahettin Bey, director of the Smyrna museum, says that he has irrefutable proof that the singer of Trojan heroes was born in Halkapinar, a quarter of Smyrna, but he will not divulge the contents or the history of the document.

Smyrna is one of seven cities of Asia Minor that have hotly disputed since antiquity the claim of being the Greek poet's birthplace.

New York City

New York city has an extreme length north and south of 36 miles and an extreme width of 16½ miles, this latter measurement being from the North River along Twenty-third street to the easterly border of Queens borough. From the western border of Richmond borough to the easterly boundary of Queens borough is 25 miles. Manhattan island is 12⅝ miles long and its extreme breadth is 2⅝ miles.

Check Vessels for Health

No vessel may dock in the port of London until the medical officers in charge of the dock have given her a clean bill of health, but only a small percentage of the 15,000 vessels which enter the Thames every year have actually to be boarded.

Snow Togs Gay With Color and Chic

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

HO, HO, ho! Who wouldn't go, up on the hill top far, far away? Come on up, the snow's fine. Let's go!

Whether we be snow-faring fans or among those who elect to join the style parade under sunny skies "where summer spends the winter," the "what-to-wear" problem is ever with us. So let's spend a few moments in conference with Dame Fashion and see what she has to say upon the subject.

To begin with those who skate and ski and toboggan and frolic in the snow are expected to follow as meticulous a style program as does milady who promenades along sun-warmed beaches or dances to the rythmic sway of waving palms under tropic starry skies.

A most important lesson which fashion teaches is the value of color—flamboyant, audacious color, if you please. A formula for color which the smart set is adopting enthusiastically for winter sports outfits is gray for the basic color with accessories in a riot of brilliant greens, blues, reds and orange tones. Over a swanky gray costume consisting of trousers in dark gray with a tuck-in sweater in lighter tone, the neckband and wristbands knitted in vivid stripes, she who skates wears a patchwork suede jacket, in lumberjack fashion, which startles the eye with its vivid coloring, being formed of swatches of blue, green, red and yellow suede sewed together in crazy-quilt fashion, with enough gray suede worked in to relate it to the gray of the sweater and trousers with which it is worn.

It does not look its high color in the picture, but if the skirt-and-jacket suit worn by the young woman playing ice hockey in the picture could be seen in the original it would certainly qualify as being plenty colorful. The trimly buttoned and belted jacket is of bright red corduroy. It is lined with natural chamois. The skirt is of rich green suede leather. Its buttoned-down-the-front fastening is the last word for sportswear.

Included among timely suggestions for conservatively smart snow suits are types such as the model shown to the right in the picture. It is made of navy gabardine which is so generally worn, it has become almost a tradition in the sports realm. Variety is afforded by the plaid lining which is woven in flaming colors.

The commendable thing about modern winter sports togs is that no matter how pictorial they may be they never sacrifice the practical.

The sportswoman who knows her fashions never thinks of wearing a jacket or blouse which does not fasten with a metal slide or some such arrangement. That is, if she be not intrigued with some other equally as dependable a gadget such as, for instance, the new fastening created by Schiaparelli which slips small wooden knobs through leather thongs. A row of 'em is warranted to "doll up" any ski or skate suit to the snow queen's taste. Howsoever to do the trick without ostentation you will please to note the pullover blouse pictured above in the group, which fastens with a metal slide at the back of the neck. The collar and gloves are striped in pale blue and brown.

DINNER JACKETS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

One sleeveless decollete gown with a flock of cunning dinner jackets equals a whole wardrobe of evening clothes. Which goes to show how practical fashion is growing during these days when economy is correct form wherever we may go. The model pictured is in black and white velvet. Gold or silver-spangled velvet would make up very prettily after this fashion. The list of flattering dinner jackets includes some very dainty fantasies made of choice lace either black or in ecru or flesh tints. Worn over black velvet or crepe dresses they transform the formal gown into a costume tuned to the semi-formal dine or dance hour. The flair for sparkle is reflected in the dazzling little capelets and jackets which are sequin covered.

Hatback Is Need

The strong popularity of the Victorian coiffure that sweeps all the curls to the back of the head makes the elevated hatback practically inoperative.

GOLD AND SILVER SLIPPERS RETURN

The fashion tip given by one of the better shoe houses is to dye the heels and bows of an opera pump to match the gown or the accessories. This same house is showing a slipper that can almost be said to embody every color of the rainbow in a vivid pattern.

Velvet slippers are exceedingly smart. Many of them have straps and intricate trimmings of gold or silver kidskin. Some have both. Returned to favor are kidskin gold and silver slippers. A new note is a combination of the gold and silver.

The brocades are very smart. They are trimmed with the gold or silver kidskin. Some houses are showing a trim of opaque kidskin. There are satin and moire combinations to be had and crepe slippers to be dyed.

One-Sleeved Gowns Are Latest Freak in Paris

Two sleeves do not make a dress. Paris couturiers are striving to persuade their clients that one is quite sufficient.

However bizarre may be your mental picture of a one-sleeved gown, in reality the creation is sometimes effective. It's smartest, however, when applied to jackets.

These leave one arm covered with a fabric contrasting with the fabric of the dress sleeve. The armhole of the "missing sleeve" is trimmed with feathers, the other with fur.

Sequin Capes

A shoulder cape of sequins on black net or chiffon is charming worn with a simple evening gown. They can be bought separately to wear with different dresses.

Plaid Velvet

CRITICALLY WOUNDS WOMAN EMPLOYER, THEN KILLS SELF

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Michael Schultz, 40, a restaurant proprietor, shot and critically wounded a woman employe today and then killed himself.

Police said they believed Schultz shot Mrs. Mary W. Heigle, 33, a widow, after she had spurned his pleas that she marry him. They said several persons who had told them Schultz and Mrs. Heigle had quarreled on several occassions because of the restaurant man's persistent wooing.

Neighbors heard the shots today and found Schultz lying dead beside the woman, who was shot in the left side. The man had shot himself in the head.

Brown, who left his place of duty during the last hour of his work time, may also have been stabbed, said Dr. William R. Wiane, coroner. There were evidences of a struggle near the railroad track.

HIGHER TAXES.

It is expected that there will have to be higher federal taxes to bring the budget to a real balance. And if it is absolutely necessary to restore the income tax to the old war level, the country will doubtless agree now as it did then. But the taxpayers will have to be persuaded that it is necessary. The new rates already adopted last year, to go into effect this year, look pretty high.

An important question in connection with this or any other proposal for higher taxes is the good faith of Congress. As everybody knows, there are two ways to balance a budget. Taxes may be raised, or expenditures may be reduced. Both may be worked together. So far, there has been virtually no reduction in expenditure, no governmental deflation—nothing but more severe taxes. At present, Congress is professedly engaged in a serious and honest effort to do justice to the taxpayers by turning thrifty, cutting corners in every department, eliminating every item of expense that can be spared without fatal injury to the public service or harsh injustice to any group.

Yet what has been the situation in the last few days? Nearly all the talk has been of more taxes; hardly any of it has been of more thrift. To meet an estimate of a half-billion deficit for the fiscal year 1933-34, there has been proposed a cut of only $100,000,000 on appropriation bills. Taxpayers will rise as one man and say this is not enough. Let us have less expense, and then talk of more taxes.

SEA-ROCKETING.

Auguste Piccard, the Swiss professor who went up into the stratosphere in a metal ball to study the upper air, is reported as having invented a rocket to travel in. He may contemplate using it to soar higher than a balloon would carry him. He speaks, however, of the possibility of rocketing—or maybe we should say rocketeering—horizontally. He estimates that his rocket can travel three miles a second. At that rate it would be possible to cross the Atlantic in 15 or 20 mintues.

So we may be shooting over to Europe and back again, one of these days, in the time it would take for a business errand a few blocks away. That is, if we don't mind the speed. Anyone who feels as if everything inside of him were rushing to his feet when an elevator starts up, and rushing to his head when it starts down, might be a little timid about embarking in such a craft. Accelerating from nothing to three miles a second, in about the time you get an automobile into high from a standstill, might be a little hard on the human system. Then there would probably be some Smart Aleck aboard who would insist on rocking the rocket. And coming down, like a shooting star out of the clouds, would certainly call for a good set of shock absorbers. We'll let the professor try it first.

ENDOWED POETRY.

An Irish poet, Dr. Oliver St. John Hogarty, now visiting America, makes the entertaining suggestion that Henry Ford use some of his millions to endow poetry. He explains his idea thus:

Ford has done more for motion on the earth's surface than any one since the Romans built their roads. He has made the whole world a road. And since earthly motion of the kind he has developed is something that prevents thought, he ought to do like Nobel, who made explosives all his life and then endowed a peace foundation: he ought to do something to stimulate thought. He should ascend into the realm of the highest form of motion, intellectual motion, and endow poetry.

The genial Dr. Hogarty is probably spoofing. Why assume, anyway, that poets "stimulate thought?" One of the finest poets in America says the best poetry is never important, because it isn't intellectual—it's the opposite. And Dr. Hogarty himself defines poetry as a "rhythmic spell," to set free the human spirit, somewhat as fine music does.

It is questionable whether poetry appeals to Henry Ford. His chief connection with the poetic art seems to have been his endowment of the school made famous by the doggerel of Mary and her lamb, and of the Wayside Inn celebrated in Longfellow's poem. And just now, it is taking most of Ford's loose millions to endow new Silver models.

CHOKED TRADE.

The authors of a book entitled "A Primer of Money" have something to say about the buy-at-home movement which is sweeping the world. "Every nation," they write, "is trying to sell as much as possible to the rest of the world and buy as little as possible from the rest of the world. . . . This is the impasse at which the world stands today. It is a plot for a comic opera." It might be comic opera for the dwellers on another planet. On this one, it is fast becoming tragedy.

No nation up to now has retained its prosperity by this means. While our own trade balance remains favorable, it will be increasingly hard to keep it so if we insist on buying less from foreign lands, for that will make it more and more difficult for them to buy at all from us. This is all regarded as simple, basic fact by those who know anything of economics, but the 100-per-cent patriots do not bother with economics.

SUGAR SAVING LIVES.

One of the little witty sayings of a few years back was "the operation was a success but the patient died". The thought of course was that all the surgeon had in mind was to perform a clever or brilliant operation.

The reason that some patients die under operation is because of "shock". Shock has always been a hard obstacle to overcome but fortunately the day has arrived when this has been almost completely overcome, all over the world.

The treatment that has rendered operations free from shock both before and after operation is injecting sugar or a glucose (dextrose) solution into the veins.

Dr. J. O. Polak and associates, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have been able to show the wonderfully helpful effects of dextrose.

(1) It is a food for the vital organs, especially the liver and heart muscle.

(2) It strengthens the pulse.

(3) It raises the blood pressure and increases the circulation in the parts of the body most distant from the heart.

(4) It flushes the kidneys and prevents acidosis.

(5) It reduces body temperature.

(6) It increases the protective power of the blood.

You can readily see that when these injections are made previous to operation the patient is built up physically and mentally to undergo the strain of the operation. Very often in previous times, starving the patient for a day or two before the operation, and giving large doses of purgative medicines left the patient's body clean enough, but lacking in strength to undergo the operation.

And then after operation the sugar solution injected into the veins prevents shock, puts plenty of body building fluid in the system for the heart to pump to all parts of the body, gives safety to the patient, and increases his general resistance.

This treatment should certainly be of great comfort to the surgeon as he sees the patient respond to the treatment in such a dramatic manner. The anxiety of the family, the family physician, the nurses, and the house surgeons in hospitals has been greatly lessened by this simple but effective treatment before and after operation.

$ Buying Barbara

by Julia Clute-Addoms • Author of "THE CAVE DWELLER"

SYNOPSIS: When her usual efficiency Mrs Lodely sends Barbara Gramme at Hugo Mallard asking that she pack and move the Lodely townhouse. Mark Lodely and his mother are in London where Ferrell Armitage is spending much money to launch Mark as an artist. Ferrell scorns Leila when he has made Mark aware, perhaps even cured his lameness. Barbara will break her engagement to Mark and marry Ferrell's benefactor. Barbara finishes packing steps out a moment, and returns to find someone in the Lodely former home.

Chapter 30

LEILA SPEAKS HER MIND

BEFORE Barbara had time to become frightened a cool voice said—"Hullo! There you are!"—and Leila Cane came out into the hall.

"I've been to your rooms. Your landlady said you'd moved into your Toxeter house, but you just might be here. So I thought I'd chance finding you. I've come straight from London."

"Why?" asked Barbara bluntly.

The uncertain light of the swinging oil lamp showed no flush on Leila's cheek, but Barbara sensed that she felt repulsed.

"I didn't mean to sound snubby," she amended, though without haste. "Only I wondered what you could have to say to me that was so important." She caught her breath sharply. "There's nothing wrong with Mark?"

"Mark's in clover. . . . Have you dealt with all this junk by yourself?"

"Yes."

"Just like Mrs. Lodely to swing it all on to you."

"That's not for you to say, Leila."

Leila was unabashed. She turned back into the sitting room and eyed the fountain pen and the papers. She was dressed in the golden tan leather coat and hat in which she looked so supple and invulnerable and aloof. She picked up a large sealed envelope torn at the edges and weighed it absently in her hand.

"You forgot these, Barbara."

"No. There was no room. I must take them in a separate parcel. . . . Oh, that big envelope has split! I supose there was too much in it."

Leila turned it over carelessly and it split further. It had been ridiculously crammed.

"Barbara, I came down to urge you to do Patsy Raoul's house."

"I don't think you bothered to find me just to ask me that."

Barbara was scornful and because she was also tired to the point of collapse she let her scorn show. She began to put Mrs. Lodely's papers together, placing one ill-tied bundle upon the other. Leila's hand went out and stopped her.

"Barbara—" She sounded almost moved, for Leila—"We used to be friends as children. Why do you hate me so?"

"I don't hate you," she protested—"exactly."

"I think you do—exactly. And you've no reason. What is it you've got against me?"

"I suppose that I resent—whatever there is—between you and Mark."

"There's nothing between us now. And for what there once may have been, blame Mark as well as me!"

"Blame Mark?" Barbara said, her scorn intensifying. "How futile of you to push responsibility on to my poor Mark!"

Then she stepped back; back and back until a chair impeded her retreat. And step by step Leila, ablaze, pursued her.

"Your poor Mark! Why yours—why yours? He could have been mine! He would have been happier with me. You're lovely, in a picture book way, but you've never attracted him as I have. He isn't your type of lover. Ah, you're offended by that! You think I've no right to say it!"

"You have less than no right. You're impertinent."

"And you're selfish!"

"Selfish—I? . . . Leila, hadn't you better go?"

"You are selfish—selfish and proud. You made a promise when you were too much of a child to understand the nature of it and now it has become a matter of pride with you to keep your word. You never ask yourself if Mark is really happy in your care."

Barbara flung back her head.

"I don't need to ask myself. I ask Mark instead—and he tells me that he is happy and that he loves me and that he wants us to marry!"

"Of course he tells you that, because you've made him believe it. Mark's lazy, Mark's cruel, and there's a side of Mark that makes him hold to you because with you he can be as lazy and cruel as he chooses. How do you know that with me he might not learn to be less crazy and less cruel?"

"Because," said Barbara, icy, unrelenting, "I saw a portrait he painted of you. He was never been so cruel to me as that!"

"Oh, Mark! Oh, Mark!"

Leila's hands were flung out, as though she sought for help. Then she went softly back to the table, sat down and held her head.

Barbara's anger had vanished utterly. She, too, returned to the table.

"I'm terribly sorry I said that, Leila! Terribly ashamed!"

After a moment the muffled voice answered from under shielding fingers.

"You needn't be. I provoked you to it. Has anyone besides yourself seen it?"

"No," said Barbara without a qualm. She added, coming closer—"It's destroyed now, absolutely obliterated. You can forget it—and everything to do with it."

"I'd like to tell you about—the portrait," said Leila, applying lipstick and powder-puff with careful precision.

"You needn't tell me, Leila."

"We were seeing a lot of each other. I think Mark wanted to fall in love with me; or perhaps he only wanted to feel free. He seemed to resent violently that he was not free; and yet he never contemplated for one instant giving you up. It was as if he—daren't."

"I'm not his jailer!"

"Are you sure you're not? Anyway, he was irked and restless and he took it out on me, but only, I swear, because he was irked. I don't naturally drive him to cruelty, as you do."

"It's useless, this kind of talk."

"No, not useless. It's part of what lies between us and it's time we had it clear. . . . Barbara, Mark and I decided at last—there was a fancy dress ball in town and we planned—"

"I've told you I don't want to know."

"And I've told you I want to tell. We left this hole of a place quite openly but I turned off the London road the other side of Toxeter and we went down to a little village I know on the South coast.

"He gave me an emerald pendant, a beautiful thing, set in platinum. But there was a girl there—a waitress—faintly like you and it broke Mark's mood. Next day he began to taunt me. I went off the deep end—I threw the emerald at him—we had a hell of a row and in the end I drove up to town, swearing he could stick alone there by the sea for the rest of his wicked life."

She bent and peered into the mirror in her bag and ran a finger-tip over the arches of her brows.

"After I'd been in London at the flat—a couple of weeks, he sent me a photograph. I gaped at it—at first I couldn't get the point at all. You see, I hadn't seen the portrait, then."

"It was a photograph of the portrait?"

"It was indeed!" Leila laughed—the old, mocking laugh, a little bitter, a little amused. "You've seen it, you'll know why I couldn't risk his showing it to anyone."

"He never would have shown it. He couldn't!"

"Don't be a fool! You know he'd have shown it to all Kings Mallard if it had suited him. No one would have believed that I hadn't sat for it. He had been making 'notes' of me for weeks, you see, and he evidently had had his sketch-book with him—and there's no doubt he has a wonderful memory. . . . Well, when I'd grasped the 'dea, I wired him—'How much?'"

"What? You—you dared?"

"Mark wired back—'Fifty.' He informed me afterwards that it barely covered his expenses in getting back here. He'd written to Mr. Frere for his fare home and that blessed old saint went himself by car and collected him."

Training School Again This Year

The School of Leadership Training, so successful in Kingston last year, will be repeated again this year beginning on January 30, and continuing for five successive Mondays. All sessions will be held this year in the St. James M. E. Church. The school is a united project of the churches of the city with the cooperation of the Ulster County Sunday School Association.

The school will offer five different courses and there will be a faculty of five teachers. Three of the faculty members were instructors in the school last year. They are Dr. Gerrit Verkuyl who will teach a course on The New Testament; Dr. T. Basil Young whose course will be "Studies In the Prophets"; and Mrs. Augusta Young who will teach the course, "Intermediate-Senior Materials and Methods." Mrs. R. A. Brooks, teaching the course "Dramatization and Pageantry," and Miss Helen L. Royce, teacher of "A Study of Middle Childhood," are new members of the faculty for this year.

Considerable interest has already been displayed over the prospects of the school and many of last year's students are looking forward to renewing their work along this line. It is expected that there will be more than 150 students enrolled when the school opens. A person must be 16 years of age in order to enroll in the school and pay a tuition fee of one dollar. Many of the church schools of the city are paying the fees of its members who register for a course. Registrations are being made now through committees in the various churches or with N. H. Fuller at the Y. M. C. A. who is the enrollment chairman of the school.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

Edwin G. Comstock bought the Newkirk undertaking business.

Jan. 14, 1923—The barn of William Mann in the rear of 278 Albany avenue destroyed by fire. Two horses and 150 chickens were also burned. The heavy drifts of snow hid fire hydrants from sight and firemen had difficult time locating hydrants.

Death of Mrs. George H. Decker of Pine street.

Ernest Magnusson and Miss Helen D. Van Demark married in Brooklyn.

Mrs. David Whitaker died at Saugerties.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—

by John Hix

One of the strangest incidents in baseball history happened on July 14, 1903, when Pitcher Thielman, dead on third base, crossed home plate to score the tying run. Thielman, pitching for the Willmar team against Benson, was the first man up in the last half of the tenth inning. Willmar was one run behind. Two strikes had been called on him when he connected with the ball and drove out a single.

Following him to bat was a heavy hitter named O'Toole, who drove the ball deep into the outfield. Thielman advanced to second without difficulty, but staggered on his way to third base, where he collapsed. O'Toole, close behind, picked the pitcher up and carried him to home plate, allowing him to cross first. Although it was not known then, Thielman was dead—he had died, physicians said, on third base. His run tied the game. O'Toole's won it.

Half dog and half cat in characteristics—a fact that had led scientists to look upon it as the connecting link between those two animals—the cheetah, or hunting leopard of Asia and Africa, is considered the fastest four-footed animal in the world. It has long slender legs, and a long tail, bushy at the tip.

Captured in the wild and subdued, the cheetah is used for hunting. It can outrun antelope and deer. Strange as it seems, a cheetah cannot be trained to hunt, and those raised in captivity are worthless as hunters.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Jan. 11.—Pratt and Myron Boice of Kingston have presented the Baptist Sunday school and the West Shokan school each with an elegant historical calendar depicting the scenes of Washington's first meeting with General Lafayette in 1777. As boys, Pratt and Myron, and sister, Nancy, were regular attendants at Sunday school and it was within the walls of the school house in West Shokan that they and the older sister, Anna, obtained their education.

Fred Pixley of Bellville, N. J., is spending a winter vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Burgher. Mr. Van Buren will shortly have his mill ready for operation and it is said that he expects to provide a market for all his neighbors who may have surplus timber for sale. Mr. Van knows saw mill and lumber game like an old sailor knows the sea. Success a plenty to the community's latest enterprise.

On Tuesday evening, Uncle Jake was paid a call by his west side friends, Marvin Van Demark and Elwyn Davis, while on a business errand in Ashokan.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Puss Superstitious?

Chicago—The thirteen members of Chicago's Anti-Superstitious Society had a stroke of bad luck.

When they sat down to luncheon to talk over their efforts to rout belief in evil omens, their black cat sneaked out a door between the legs of an incoming guest, jumped a fence, headed up an alley and disappeared.

Nice Way To Treat Guest.

Duluth, Minn.—James Emil Savela, 36, couldn't come to the policemen's and firemen's hockey game although he had purchased tickets.

The reason he couldn't attend was because the police shot and killed him the other day as a jewelry store robber.

A detective sold him the tickets for the game, played last night.

Eight Lives Left.

Baltimore—Mike, the mascot of the "Dandy Fifth" Regiment, today is licking out ashes and sooty water from his fur after escaping death in a fire which destroyed the Fifth Regiment Armory.

Mike, an alley kitten, was found hours after the fire, crouching cold and dirty on a crate in the flooded boiler room.

"What Goes Up—"

Rochester, Minn.—Fred Twogood, airplane pilot, says the old axiom should be changed to "you can't keep a good man up."

Twogood, who started his flying career in Kansas less than six years ago, recently made his 100th forced landing. Only two resulted in crackups.

Turkey Tricks.

Downers Grove, Ill.—For all-around hoodlumism, Bill and Pete, Montana turkeys that managed to outlive the holidays, are coming in for their share of attention. Bill weighs 22 pounds and Pete tips the scales at 18. Their record:

Chased a gas inspector 200 meters.

Demonstrated their ability to whip any dog in Downers Grove—single handed.

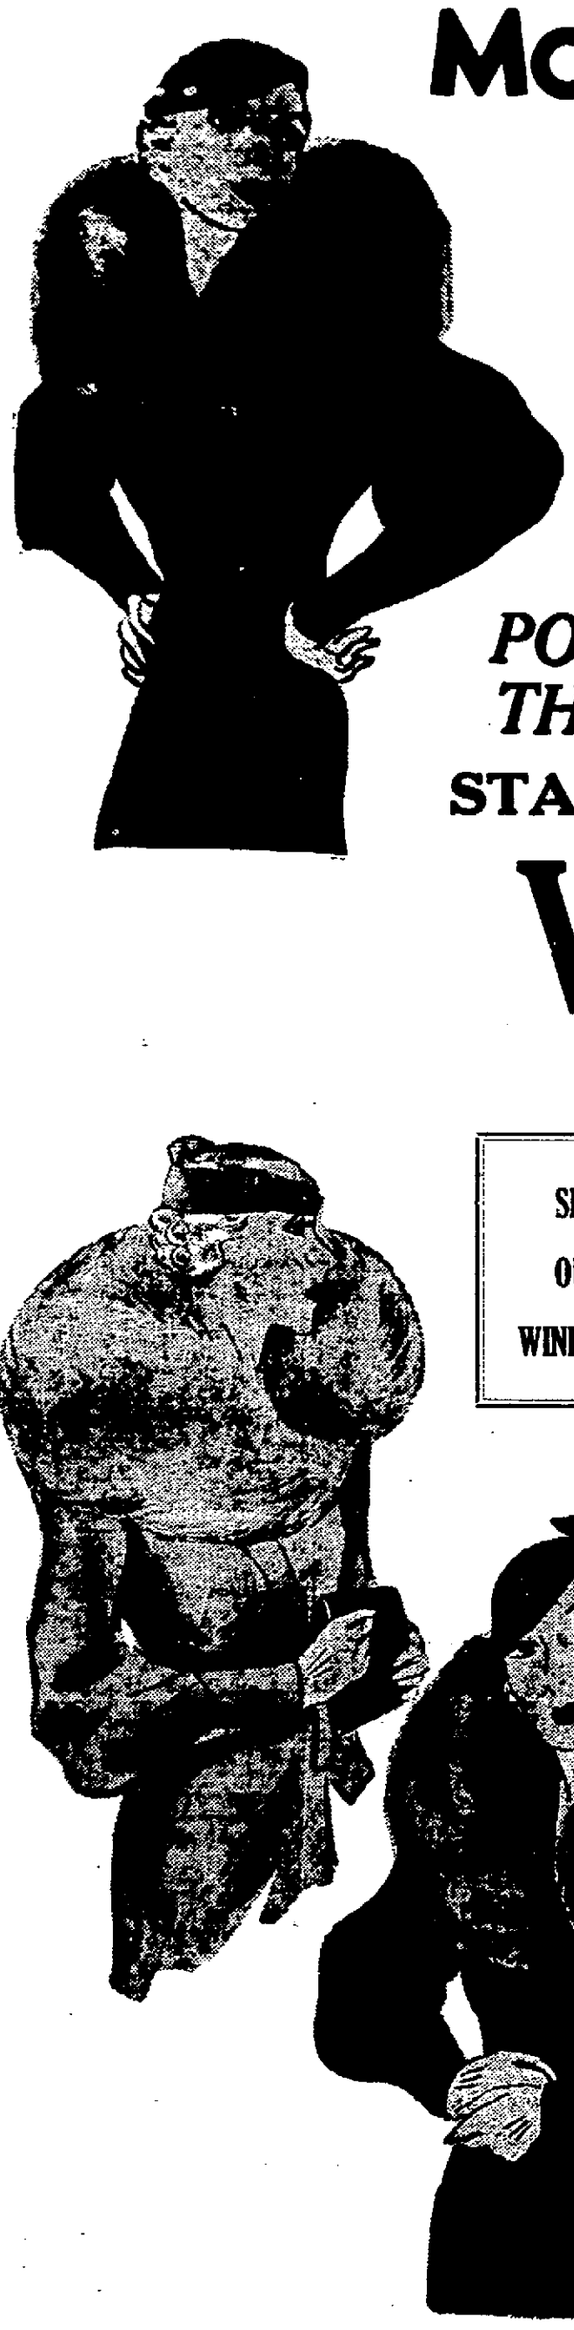

Made a housewife run indoors.

Combining forces, made life miserable for eight dogs.

Mrs. Robert Tarr, wife of their owner, said she wouldn't execute them. With a little education she believes they can be trained into good turkeys.

Lucky For Cats.

Mount Carmel, Pa.—A couple of truck drivers are convinced Friday the thirteenth is unlucky but a lot of cats in this neighborhood don't agree with them. The two trucks collided on the hoodoo day and spilled their contents all over the street. What tickled the cats was the trucks were loaded with milk.

If Not Plaid, Then Diagonals or Checks

Facing the Future Fashions

New York—It must make even a dour Scotchman smile to see the way we are all clamoring for Scotch in one form or another—usually in plaid, the purest Scotch of all. While it is not literally true that a plaid evening dress is a thing unheard of, it is true that it is rarely seen. But how long one may be able to say that, is a moot question. Stylists believe that plaid evening dresses are going to be rather plentiful. They argue that they are not only different, but quite as chic as the striped ones, and these, as we know, have gone over.

Whether we wear plaids for evening, or whether we wear plaids for afternoon, the fact remains that we will wear plaids. The Glenurquhart, which is called both a plaid and a check, has every chance of becoming as fashionable with women as with men—that is, if the classic tailor comes in as strong as is predicted. Plaid sports or top coats, and smaller plaids and checks in shirtwaist dresses, either in flannel or cotton, are already backed by those who never bet on anything but a sure thing.

It will not be long, now, before prints of various kinds will be engaging our attention—florals, geometrical designs and such. Among the first to be shown are those in crayon or brush-stroke effects. These are rather sketchily done, and therein lies their chief charm.

At the moment, we are less concerned with prints than we are with interesting weaves. While a good many classic crepes are worn, these are outnumbered by the rougher crepes, the leader of which is matelasse, an old friend returned in fine fettle. As long as a woman is allowed to use a mat and a shiny-surfaced fabric together, she does not seem to mind if color contrasts are denied her. This season, when she has both, she is naturally quite content with the outlook.

There is talk of the two-piece dress being revived, not only in the shirtwaist type already pressagented, but also in dressier versions. It is to be doubted whether any effort will be made to deprive use of the ensemble—call it what they may.

At extreme left is a daytime dress developed in a striped and bordered print, black and white with a dash of red. The covered shoulder, fulness at back and button detail are effective.

The next costume combines a black and brown overplaid on a white ground with a brown woolen, the latter used for the coat in three-quarter length. The scarf is a noteworthy feature.

The jacket costume, youthfully styled, is in navy Rodier cashmere wool, with the linen weave waistcoat a gay springlike detail.

Next, a checked woolen is sponsored for long coat suit, in blue, egg-shell and pink with the pink repeated in silk jersey blouse.

The first evening gown is fashioned of white jacquard taffeta, with sections of the bodice and long panels at the back in red, white and black chiffon with a plaided border.

The dress at the right is developed in a plaid chiffon, with dots and stripes creating an effective pattern, the colors including apple green for the ground, with blue and orange for contrast.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

We are headed for a suit spring and, with the confident assurance that suits will be good, comes the prediction that a first choice will be the classic tailleur.

Fabrics take their cue from the silhouette and are more manish than ever. Most advanced in feeling are the worsted twills in tans and blue that look positively old-fashioned they are so new.

The lightweight woolen dress for active sports is something that should go on numerous cruises, or be worn at home.

Shirtwaist frocks for formal wear, done in the sheerest fabrics and in dark colors, with high neck and long-sleeved blouses and full-length skirts, are one of the newest ways of coordinating formal and informal themes into a very sophisticated costume which may serve many purposes.

Blousemakers are introducing the softer note in the most utterly feminine type that can be imagined. While not strictly new this spring (since it was launched this fall but not generally adopted), the "fluffy" blouse involves such bon bon effects as sheer silks, candy pastels, and rows of baby-width Valenciennes lace ruffled, and applied in allover patterns. It is the lingerie 1906 blouse to the nth degree.

Fulness, back or front, is this year's limit on fulness at all in skirts. Just as long as the side profile stays straight and slim, pleats or shirred fulness are permissible.

Trimmings on hats are becoming a preoccupation with French modistes, just as they are with some of our own.

Black leghorn is a new note for the dark straw hat, and Lemonnier gets the credit for it.

Greges, those illusive values that are claimed by both the gray and biege families, will make their appearance in spring hosiery colors. Neutrality is the keynote of practically all hosiery. Colors are being adopted on the basis of versatility—their ability to blend with costumes and shades.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

Hands Signaling "Follow Me"

Whether the place where the decoration is posed is actually a cuff or just shaped and outlined to look like one, the feeling is the same in these three glove models.

All are of glace. At the left a one button has pointed shaping at the center back of the cuff, with tucks criss-crossing, stitched in white on black.

Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild

The upper glove is a slip-on with the back of the hand appearing straight in panel treatment until one notes the triangle sections which are stitched in up-and-down rows of contrast.

The third, below, at right, is another one-button with contrasting inlay forming scallops for the cuff elaboration.

In Case You Hit the High Spots

New York—You may be interested only in the most impersonal way in formal evening clothes. Even so, the average woman likes to know what's what and not to be in the dark about the more glamorous part of the world.

You may not want to wear a bodice that is cut away to nothing at the back. Still, it's just as well to be prepared for the shock if you find yourself out doing the high spots some of these nights. You may think that skirts that are cut long all around, and that drag like the one shown, are relics of the dark ages before the war, but they are not. They are once more underfoot, and if things keep on as at present, the spectacle of a woman holding up her skirt may not seem so absurd.

There are details about the dress sketched that may interest you even though the outstanding ones leave you cold. There is, for instance, the altogether charming arrangement of the scarf, which, you can see for yourself, does not require a bare back to make it attractive. Instead of the customary sort of flower on the shoulder, the ones shown are made of pasted feathers, and you will note that they are not exactly on the tip, but a little back of the shoulder.

We have talked so much of the evening dress which has a capelet or scarf that covers one up to the chin, that it may not be amiss to mention the fact that one may be unveiled if one wishes.

Women are finding greater use than ever for informal frocks this winter. Those who feel that it is not altogether wise to be totally unprepared for galas are ordering dresses that have detachable guimpes, or some arrangement that enables them to be either covered or uncovered, as the occasion warrants. There is a decided vogue for the dinner dress with sleeves—but they must be worthwhile sleeves, nice enough to warrant being invited.

GLAD TO SEE YOUR BACK

"Candlelight" is the name of this novelty satin frock in palest beige with patterned surface, with the seamed detail of the skirt releasing soft fulness and a train. The detachable scarf has brown pasted feather flowers posed on it. This is a Marcelle Dormoy model.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

Women are wearing:

Angora and rabbit's hair frocks in gay colors with interesting neckwear, generally white pique.

Red dresses trimmed with black sometimes red woolen and black satin, and mostly worn by the younger set.

Many fur capelets in flat black broadtail, or Russian caracul, krimmer, mink, kolinsky and beaver.

To Narrow the Silhouette

The working of contrasting fabric and color into the underarm sections of costumes is worth noting, since it serves to narrow the silhouette and is a treatment especially liked by the woman of ample figure.

This narrowing of the silhouette is done attractively in a green rough crepe dress with black satin intricately worked in at the sides and through the underarm sections. Again it is seen in a black blistered crepe dinner gown with white rough crepe introduced at the sides, which gives a square contour to the bodice. A black jacket for this ensemble has novel sleeves, cartridge-pleated below the shoulders.

These Ensembles Have Little in Common

At right, an ensemble from Lucien Lelong of waistlength jacket and skirt of dark currant red toile de laine, fitted by fine tucks at waistline and collar, completed by a bodice whose sleeves are of supple woolen voile, and gilet and waistband of a sort of tapestry-worked woolen ribbon in dark brown, beige and white.

At left, an ensemble from Callot Soeurs which has coat of brown jersey in a relief "cloky" pattern, collared and cuffed with beige pastel feathers; and dress of the jersey in pale beige with incrustation of brown, and half-ball buttons.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Jan. 13—Dr. H. P. VanWagenen of Kingston was a business caller in the village Thursday morning.

Mrs. Daniel Sampson of the heights section, who has been suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism, is again able to come down town.

A spaghetti supper will be served by the Shokan Ladies' Aid Society in the Reformed Church hall on Wednesday evening, January 18. An added attraction will be an entertainment by a band of singers from Marbletown.

Mrs. J. I. Boice, Mrs. Steen and John Darling comprised a party of Samsonville road folks, who came here on business Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burtis Wheat of the west end were hosts at a domino party at their home on Monday evening at this popular rural indoor pastime.

Miss Helen Young of Boston is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. August Pfaus, wife of the pastor of the Shokan Reformed Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Burhans, old residents of the Brown Station Heights section, were callers in the village Thursday morning.

Newsy notes of the Krumville sector of the town of Olive on January 12, 1918, were as follows: The orchestra met at the home of the leader, Jentz Boice. . . A number of the boys are engaged in peeling pulpwood at Brown Station. . . Miss Alida Osterhoudt of Stone Ridge has a class of seven music pupils in Krumville. . . Benjamin and Orrin Merrihew purchased a pair of steers recently.

Supervisor Chester A. Lyons of Ashokan has booked orders for several of the new model Chevrolet cars for which he is local agent.

The annual tax-gathering party in the village hall on Thursday was presided over by Justus North, Robert Palen and C. A. Lyons, who attended to the clerical work for Collector Early North. A number of property holders from the other districts of the town came here to pay their taxes at this sitting, held primarily for the convenience of residents of the First election district.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Ashokan M. E. Church will hold a pancake supper in the church hall on Thursday evening, January 19.

James Williams of Windham is spending some time at the home of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Burtis Wheat.

Joseph DeWitt, the sage of Cool Breeze Hill, desires to make a correction apropos of an item appearing in this column recently and stating that Mr. DeWitt's many friends in the village center were glad to see him down town again after having discontinued his daily trips to the post office. Joe, with a charming naivete, declares that if the truth be known his many friends can be counted on the fingers of his two hands. This, coming from a man who for half a century has been "hail fellow, well met" with ninety per cent of the residents of his native town, is candor that is at once refreshing and unique.

On January 12, 1879, the funeral took place of John Furman, a well known resident of the town of Olive. Interment was in the David Weeks burying ground in the Coons district, near the present farmhouse of Earl Brundage. According to the custom of those days in the mountain section, the grave had been dug by friends and neighbors of the deceased. Those who prepared Mr. Furman's last resting place were as follows: William Bogart, father of Mrs. Arthur Carter and grandfather of Archie Bogart of Cold Brook; Samuel Sampson, an old time preacher, who was the father of Samuel Sampson of Shokan; John Weeks, father of Henry Weeks, of Shokan, and Granville Weeks of Kingston and George Turck, father of Mrs. Samuel Osborn.

Mrs. S. Nadal entertained several of her friends at bridge at her home on Van Steenburgh road last Tuesday evening.

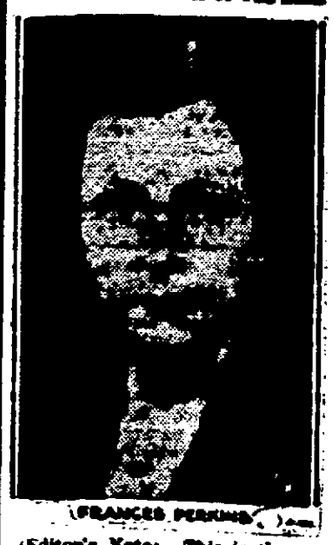

Lewis Thiel, well known poultryman, reports that his flock of 300 hens and pullets are laying first rate at this time, a gratifying condition in view of the fairly good prices currently paid for eggs. Mr. Thiel claims that his pullets of the Minorca breed have the advantage of producing large eggs within a few days after they have commenced to lay. Unlike most other breeds, these fowls waste very little time in shelling out 21-ounce eggs; they get down to the business of laying eggs of standard weight per dozen almost immediately. This obviously is quite an item at a time when eggs are graded closely and the heavier units bring in the big money.

Louis Lifschitz of Mt. Trumper stopped in the village and said hello to several of his friends on Thursday morning. Louis is one popular man; he gets the glad hand wherever he goes and especially so in this section, where he formerly was engaged in the general store business.

A SEAT in the CABINET?

FRANCES PERKINS

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh of a series of articles picturing briefly men and women mentioned for posts in the Roosevelt cabinet.)

Women who urge scholarly, practical Frances Perkins as "first woman in the cabinet" argue she would be the logical person for the labor secretary's post even if she were a man!

Appointed industrial commissioner of New York state and city in January, 1929, by Franklin D. Roosevelt, she administers affairs of the largest labor market in the nation.

Her brown eyes carry, and kindle, enthusiasm, her well-groomed figure moves with, and inspires, energy as she directs a department dealing with 1,500 to 3,000 callers daily; publishing statistics second only in volume to the federal labor department, and administering welfare laws.

"Advanced social and labor legislation has been the making of the Democratic party in New York," Perkins recently said.

In private life she is Mrs. Paul C. Wilson. Her husband is a sociologist and statistician.

Uncle Rasberry—Didn't yo' tell me dat speckled hoss yo' sold me was gaited?

Mr. Erastus Pinkley—Dat's whut Ah told yo', an' dat's whut he am. He's variegated.

A man in a Boston, Massachusetts, court spoke a language none of thirty interpreters could understand. Perhaps it was a negro dialect as written by Yankee authors.

It was their first day in a military camp and the two colored recruits were sitting in the kitchen more or less industriously removing the skins from potatoes.

First Negro—Huccum, huccum dat officer keeps callin' us K. P.—K. P.?

Second Negro—Heah yo' mouf, ignonorance. Dat am de abbreciation fo' "Keep Peelin'—Keep Peelin'."

Old Uncle Lorenzo from out near Yanceyville says: " 'Nother thing Ah kain't understond am why a preacher gits only $5 fo' tyin' a knot dat de lawyah gets $100 to untie."

Henry—Why do Ah see yo' walkin so much lately, Sambo?

Sambo—Ah'm reducin'.

Henry—Reducin'? Nigger, yo' is not fat. What is yo' reducin'?

Sambo—Expenses.

Money is the root of all evil—yet everybody spends most of their time rooting for it.

The cross-examining lawyer asked the old Negro witness a question:

Old Negro—Ah thinks—

Lawyer (interrupting)—We don't care what you think; we want to know what you know.

Old Negro—Well, Ah jes' as well set off de stan', den. Ah kain't talk widout thinking'. Ah ain't no lawyer.

Five per cent seems a pitifully small return on your money, until you've tried to get ten per cent and lost your principal.

City Friend—So you are undertaking to keep bees?

Farmers—Yes. I don't want to miss anything, and I've been stung every other way there is.

The right to do right is the only right you have. You have no right to do wrong, not even the excuse of personal liberty.

The Efficient Person

—Keeps his eyes and ears open.
—Makes use of his spare time.
—Remembers the rights of others.
—Wastes a minimum of time and effort.
—Gives credit to others for work well done.
—Keeps cool under fire.
—Makes allowance for others' errors.
—Builds confidence through confidence.
—Criticizes constructively; not destructively.

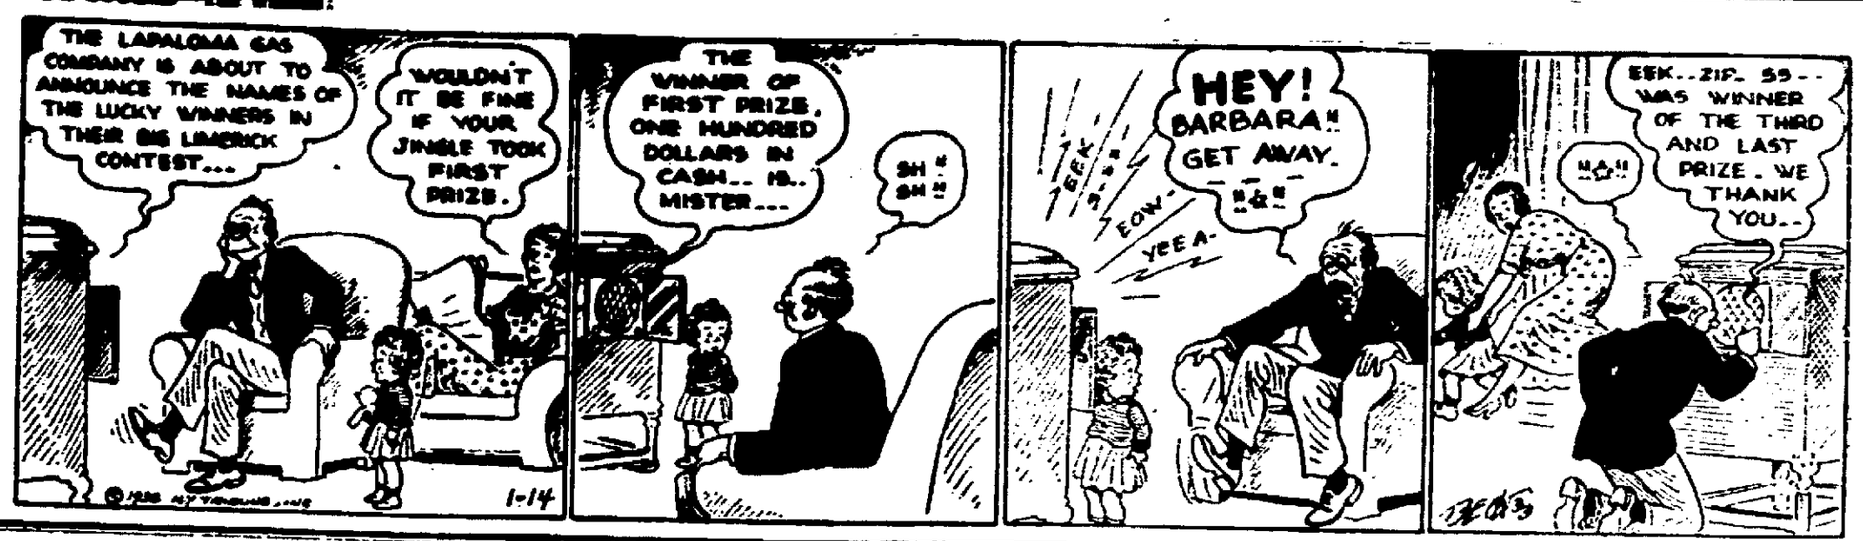

Why is it that a Justice of the Peace is good enough for a lot of folks when they get married, but when they die most everyone wants a minister for a funeral?

Judge—And what did you do when you heard the accused using such awful language?

Policeman—I told him he wasn't fit to be among decent people, and brought him here.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—The stock market readily absorbed week-end profit-taking in today's short session, and closed with a steady tone.

Leaders yielded from fractions to a point for a time, but the list stiffened in the late dealings, influenced in part by buying of the tobaccos. The close found most changes narrow, but a few issues were up or down as much as a point. The turnover was only about 350,000 shares.

Proctor and Gamble reduced the quarterly dividend to 37½ cents, from 50 cents, and that issue lost about a point. The dividend action, however, had been in part anticipated by the sag in that issue earlier in the week.

Continental Can, which has recently appeared to reflect considerable bullish activity, lost about a point, as did Chrysler and Borden. Eastman was a firm spot, up about a point, along with the tobaccos, notably American B, Liggett and Myers B, and Reynolds B. American Telephone and U. S. Steel were off substantial fractions for a time, but were about steady at the close.

Business news at the end of the week was in the main scarcely of a character to influence the list appreciably. The weekly car loadings figures were again distorted by the holiday. The total of 435,652 cars reported for the week ended January 7, however, which included the New Years holiday, showed a gain of 29,872 over the previous week, which included Christmas. A seasonal pickup in the first week of January is expected.

While textile activity, one of the industrial bright spots during the autumn, has slackened somewhat, the December cotton consumption report compared favorably with last year.

In the commodity markets, wheat held up well during the hours of stock trading, despite a sag at Liverpool. Cotton moved narrowly, closing very steady, unchanged to 10 cents a bale higher. Changes in foreign exchanges were likewise narrow. The French franc rallied a shade, while most currencies were virtually unchanged.

Commission Approves New Rate Schedule

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP).—As the first step toward a general rate reduction for customers of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company, the Public Service Commission today announced new low rates which will save consumers a total of $232,000 a year, beginning in March. Preliminary changes, effective Monday, will reduce the company's annual revenue by $16,546, the commission said.

The company serves parts of Dutchess, Orange, Ulster, Putnam, Columbia, Greene, Sullivan and Albany counties.

The reduced rates will save residential and commercial users of gas and electricity $69,000 a year and residential gas consumers alone $35,000 a year. Eventually there will be a total reduction of $144,000 a year in residence and commercial electric rates and an annual reduction of $40,000 in gas rates.

"The new rates," the commission said, "which are the result of negotiations conducted by the commission, standardize the general power rate throughout the entire territory by eliminating optional rates and classifications limited to certain localities, except four classifications applying to customers with distinct load characteristics such as ice plants, brick yards and cement mills. The new rates also eliminate the former practice of imposing a penalty on bills not paid within a given period.

Most of the reduction in power rates applies to localities other than Kingston. This district has had a lower rate than other localities for some time. This rate will, in a few instances, be slightly higher than at present.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

DON'T IMITATE MEN; LET US BE OURSELVES

THAT is the advice which Jane Addams gave the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago at their meeting the other day.

Herself one of America's greatest women, Miss Addams is a shining example of the heights of achievement to which a woman can rise by applying herself to what she can do best, rather than by seeking success in the paths that men have blazed. It was out of her modest and uncontentatious efforts to meet the need for social service where she saw it that there evolved the great institution of Hull House, her social service center in Chicago, which is looked upon as an example by humanitarians in all the enlightened countries of the world.

Of course, every woman's instincts and abilities do not run along the same lines. But the point that is valuable for us in Miss Addams' advice to stop imitating men is the fact that we can realize our greatest possibilities by being ourselves in our approach to what we have to do rather than by attempting to shape ourselves into a masculine mold.

Women have something that is unique and different from what men have to give. It is not necessarily better or worse, it is ours, and it should not be crushed or disparaged. For we shall do better and with more originality if we do with a spirit that is our own.

Caliph of Bagdad Killed on Order of His Mother

Hadi was the second of the three sons of Mansur to become caliph of Bagdad. He succeeded his brother Mehdi in 785 and was murdered in 786. Hadi was detested by his mother, Khaizran, who made him a present of two beautiful slave girls whom she had instructed to kill him. Khaizran was then instrumental in securing the succession of her favorite younger son, Harun, the caliph of the "Arabian Nights," a mighty ruler and a famous patron of learning. . . . Yahya the son of Khalid was a member of the great Barmecide family, which supplied the caliphate with three generations of illustrious soldiers and statesmen. Yahya had been vizier under the caliph Mahdi and was the tutor and valued adviser of Harun al-Rashid, but he was distrusted by Hadi and would probably have been executed had not mother Khaizran and the slave girls acted opportunely. Yahya had two sons, Fadhl and Jafar. Yahya was Harun's vizier; Fadhl was the caliph's foster brother and a statesman of commanding ability; Jafar (the "Giafar" of the "Arabian Nights") was Harun's closest friend and inseparable companion. In 803, seventeen years after his accession, Harun al-Rashid, without an hour's warning, caused Jafar to be beheaded and cast Yahya and Fadhl into prison where they soon died of poison or starvation. This was the end of the Barmecides.

Sleepwalker Disproves Old Sudden Shock Myth

The popular myth that sleepwalkers will be damaged or even killed by the sudden shock of waking them while they are walking has been sufficiently disposed of by a British incident in which the "walker" actually lived to tell about it. As the story goes, the steam trawler Avonside was on her way to the Scotch port of Aberdeen. During the night the mate in charge of the deck saw what he thought was a man climbing over the stern of the boat. He called the captain and announced that the ship had been boarded by some mysterious being out of the sea. The captain found wet footprints on the deck and traced them to the forecastle where he found a water-soaked sailor climbing into his bunk. The sailor explained that he was a sleepwalker, that he had evidently been walking in his sleep and fell overboard. The shock of the cold water immediately wakened him. Seeing a rope hanging from the moving vessel, he grabbed it and climbed back on board.

A Soldier-Statesman

Maj. Gen. John White Geary, who accompanied Sherman in his march to the sea during the Civil war, while a military man, had a far more varied career in civil life. Born in Pennsylvania, he studied law in his early youth, but never went into practice. During the Mexican war he enlisted and became a colonel of a Pennsylvania regiment, becoming the first commander of Mexico City after the American conquest of the Mexican capital.

From Mexico he went to California, where he was appointed postmaster of San Francisco, later being elected mayor of that city. Eventually, however, his home state reclaimed him, and seven years before his death he was elected governor of the Keystone state. He held the office of governor until his death in 1873.—Washington Star.

The Road That Walked

The province of Kansu, China, was visited by a catastrophic earthquake in 1922, resulting in more than 100,000 deaths. The Chinese have no word for landslide, for which they substitute the ideograph signifying "The Mountains Walked." The most singular freak of the Kansu cataclysm occurred when a quarter-mile section of the road near Tsingning was lifted from its bed and carried over the bed of a stream, coming to rest intact on the top of a hill. In this extrordinary sweep of the road the poplars lining it were carried along, and even crows' nests in the trees were carried undisturbed to the road's new site.

Chance Brings Invention

The honey extractor by means of which honey is whirled out of the combs is the result of an accidental discovery made by a German beekeeper. His small son was whirling a honey comb which was unsealed in a basket tied to a string. The father noticed that the honey was being forced out of the comb by the centrifugal action. He went to work immediately to rig up a device which would work on the same principle and as a result the centrifugal extractor was invented.

The Cascade tunnel, built by the Great Northern railway through the Cascade mountains in the State of Washington, is the longest on the western hemisphere. It is 7.79 miles in length, straight as a rifle bore, built through solid granite, and lined for its entire length with concrete.

ANNOUNCE SETTLEMENT OF CONSPIRACY SUIT

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP).—The $500,000 suit brought by Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson, authoress, against Ernest R. Graham, Chicago architect, and Thomas McGuire, detective, was off the records today—erased by a cash settlement, the amount of which was not disclosed.

The settlement of the conspiracy suit, however, will not change the status of other suits pending against the architect, Mrs. Anderson said. She has a libel suit for $250,000 against Graham in Superior court here and another for $250,000 in New York.

Settlement of the conspiracy suit came yesterday after Mrs. Anderson testified two hours telling of a love affair she had with the architect.

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF RIDING MASTER.

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Staten Island authorities today were investigating the death of a 25-year-old riding master, Garnet Brotherton.

Brotherton was killed last night in the furnished room he occupied at Port Richmond, Staten Island. There were seven shots and so deliberate was the firing, Brotherton's landlady said, before the last one was fired she already was telephoning police.

Each shot took effect; four in the head and three in the riding master's side.

The landlady told also of seeing a man in a uniform of a coast guardsman flee down the stairs, enter a car that bore a Delaware license plate, and drive away.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad and loving memory of our daughter and sister, Grace Carey Black, who departed this life one year ago tomorrow, January 15, 1932.

Just one year ago tomorrow
Our loved one was called away.
How we miss her day by day.
But God grant some day we'll meet
On that heavenly shore
Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To her grave not far away
Where we gently laid her to rest
Just a year ago tomorrow.

India's Famines

India has had more severe famines than any other country in the world. The most disastrous one in history, the Skull famine, which occurred there between 1790 and 1792, killed so many millions that even mass burial by burning was impossible and large areas were strewn with skulls for many years afterward.—Collier's.

ROCK SCHOOL 4-H CLUBS COMMUNITY MEETING

Rifton, Jan. 14—The first community meeting of Rock School 4-H Clubs took place in Rifton Hall, January 12. The members of the Ulster Park Homemaking Club, the Tillson Homemaking Club and the Tillson Poultry Club were present. The Tillson Clubs have only organized recently but made a good showing. The Rock School homemaking, garden and poultry clubs entertained. They have 43 members and they sure are active and very interested. Sofia Palkowics, who is president of the girls' Club, also acted as chairman and was congratulated on her good work by Prof. Wright of Cornell University, who was present as a guest of the club. The county leader, Barnard Joy, who is an outstanding worker for the 4-H Clubs, and loved and respected by all its members, led the children in songs.

The main feature of the evening was a lecture and demonstration by F. Hoescher, a field representative of the "First Aid and Life Saving Service of the American Red Cross." This was very interesting and educational.

The Rock School Fife and Drum Corps played several selections under the direction of Paul Wiren. Anna Divine is local leader of Rock School 4-H Clubs and deserves much credit for her interest in this work. There were about 100 in the audience.

After the chairman thanked all those who took part, and also appreciated the cooperation given them by the people of the community for their kind assistance, refreshments were served by the 4-H Clubs.

RIFTON.

Rifton, Jan. 14.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward Balfe on Wednesday. The meeting was duly opened by the president and the minutes of the previous meeting and treasurer's report were read and approved. New business then came up for discussion and many suggestions for raising funds for the church were given. The ladies finally decided that, owing to the fact old man depression is still here, the best thing to do would be to hold a poverty party and invitations to same will be issued in due course. There being no further business to transact the meeting was adjourned.

The next Silver Tea will be held on Wednesday, January 25, at the home of Mrs. Alton Davis and every member is earnestly requested to attend and bring a friend if possible.

Sunday school will convene at the usual hour, 2 p. m., and preaching service at 3. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends and neighbors in Rifton and vicinity to turn out to these services and enjoy this hour of praise and worship.

Beam of Mayflower in Barn

Rendel Harris, a historian, says that the Mayflower was broken up in 1624. There is a tradition that it was used by Richard Gardiner to supply timber for a barn at Cole's Hill, between Amersham and Chalfonts, Mass., about 1625. A barn at Jorden's contains a beam of the original ship.

WALTER TRUMBULL

Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion of the world, recently went hunting in Canada. He had a splendid arsenal with him. There were all sorts of rifles with all sorts of sights. It happens that the moose in the region where Sharkey hunted are really a little out of his class. They seem to belong to the lighter divisions. The one Sharkey shot, as they tell me, would have weighed in with Kid Chocolate. Nevertheless, he brought home the antlers and displayed them to an acquaintance.

"What are you going to do with them?" inquired the latter. "Fasten them on the cat?"

Col. Hugh L. Cooper, who recently was decorated by the Soviet government for his work as a consulting engineer in Russia, has a beautiful estate at Stamford, Conn. Anyone who has seen it wonders how Colonel Cooper could have spent most of the last ten years in another country, even to build a $115,000,000 hydro-electric plant.

A famous surgeon performed an operation on an Eastern potentate who came to this country, and was a bit uncertain as to what fee he should charge. Considering the operation, the surgeon thought it was worth $5,000, but his wife disagreed with him. She said that here was one patient who could afford to pay more. Finally, the surgeon took a billhead, wrote on it merely, "The king can do no wrong," and sent it in. There are stories that he got a check for all the way from $100,000 to $250,000. Anyhow, it appears to have been a royal fee.

Every time I go to Princeton I realize all over again what a beautiful university it is, with its Gothic buildings and its great campus shaded by tall and ancient trees. Until recently I supposed that the university must have been founded by the Poes, but investigation discloses that those mainly responsible were an Ebenezer Pemberton of Harvard, and a Johnathan Dickinson of Yale. The latter was the first president, although the institution was then known as the "College of New Jersey" and situated at Elizabeth. It was not until Aaron Burr was president that it moved first to Newark and then to Princeton. Nassau hall, which I believe is Georgian in design, was started in 1754 and finished two years later.

They tell me that Johnathan Edwards was one of Princeton's presidents. I know that Big Bill Edwards was one of its guards. He played on two teams which beat Yale, in which victories Arthur Poe figured largely. The Poes appeared in Princeton football suits in the early 80s. S. J. Poe was the first. Then came Edgar A. Poe, captain in '89 and '90. Next was the immortal Johnny Poe, and after him Net Poe and Arthur Poe.

The penny arcades are doing a first-class business in New York. It doesn't appear to be so much the depression price as a game the arcades have put in. All of them now have one of those boards where you shoot a marble up an incline and it falls into one of various holes, all of which are numbered. The management offers prizes for high scores and the players gamble on it. Crowds stand around waiting to play. The big league ball players used to spend a lot of time on this game in Florida last spring. Pepper Martin was an expert at it.

Pussy Walks 21 Miles for a Chicken Dinner

Luray, Va.—A Luray resident decided to get rid of his cat when it developed gastronomic fondness for chickens.

Shunning the sack and stone method of disposal, he took the cat in his automobile 21 miles across the mountains, and left it.

Forty-eight hours later the cat came back, tired, hungry—and looking for more chickens.

Girl Hops Trains in Evening Dress

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The food at the county jail tastes "mighty good" to Betty Wilson, twenty-year-old Denver girl who started hitch-hiking home from New York in evening clothes. She's glad also to be indoors with a snowstorm raging outside, she told attendants.

Betty was ordered held for five days by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals court when arraigned with two young men. Railroad detectives said the three were found sleeping under newspapers in a box car in the B. & O. yards at Glenwood.

She told Jones that for more than a year she saved her money to get to New York, but once there she lost her job. So she decided to go back home. Without funds she started hitch-hiking, but in Connellsville she boarded the freight train with the two youths whom she declared "perfect gentlemen."

BURGEVIN IS RE-ELECTED SAVINGS BANK PRESIDENT

George Burgevin was re-elected president of the Kingston Savings Bank at the annual meeting of the trustees held last night. V. B. Van Wagonen and Delancey N. Mathews were re-elected vice-presidents.

James H. Betts, city treasurer, was elected a trustee to fill the place left vacant by the death of Everett Fowler.

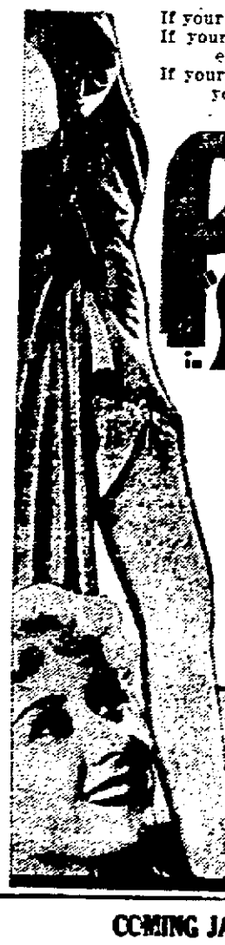

Rival Classes Steal Statue

The bronze statue of the water nymph Sabrina once decorated the campus at Amherst college. In the early 90s it was taken over as a class goddess and class rivalry since that time has involved both continual attempts to preserve it in secret hiding places by the classes which happen to have it in control (the odd or even years) and the attempts to steal it away by the rival classes.

Today.

Kingston: "Lawyer Man." William Powell is at his sophisticated best in the role of a big city lawyer who learns the art of money getting. Supporting him in the other major parts are Joan Blondell, Helen Vinson, Claire Dodd and Sheila Terry. One of the most enjoyable pictures in Mr. Powell's long list of successes is this story of law and lawyers.

Orpheum: "The Rich Are Always With Us" and "The Lost Zeppelin." Ruth Chatterton is at her best in this sophisticated story of wealth and love, while the second feature is a melodrama of the air with Ricardo Cortez and Virginia Valli.

Broadway: "Laughter in Hell." Another expose of the Chain Gang system in some of our states, this time from the pen of Jim Tully. The picture is sordid from start to finish, filled with bitterness, cruelty and death. The cast offers Pat O'Brien, Myrna Kennedy, Gloria Stuart, Tom Brown and Berton Churchill. This can't be recommended as enjoyable entertainment, but it is effective in its brutal expose of alleged chain gang atrocities.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Love is a Racket" and Wings of Adventure." Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the star of the first feature picture, a fast moving, absorbing tale of a newspaper columnist and his troubles. There is plenty of excitement in this one. Lee Tracy and Ann Dvorak are also in the cast. "Wings of Adventure" with Rex Lease and Armida is the second talkie of the program. Chapter 4 of the "Last of the Mohicans" will also be shown. Harry Carey is the star.

Broadway: Same.

Party Postponed.

The card party which was to have been held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of Union Hose January 17, has been postponed until a later date.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Your old pal, Jack Dempsey, not only stepped into the metropolitan district to steal the best heavyweight show of 1933 from under the collective noses of the ex-millionaires of Madison Square Garden, but he has turned on the ballyhoo more briskly than any individual since Tex Rickard's day.

Dempsey was brought up in the old Kearns-Rickard school. He has toured the country backward and forward, with the result the old mauler has a flock of friends and well-wishers. Consequently he has not found it difficult to obtain publicity or to get the boys talking in figures like $300,000, even though they all know there isn't that much money left these days.

While the ballyhoo is on, one offer is as good as another; in fact one more is always welcome so long as it gets into the sporting pages.

Photostatic copies of some of the famous certified checks of boom days may be put in circulation again, and most any day now Joe Mulvihill of Danbury, Conn., may toss in a bid for the Battle of the Maxes.

Best Guess.

Once the winter's garrulous gabbing is done with, the probabilities are that Max Schmeling and Max Baer will fight under Dempsey's banner in Chicago, that Sharkey will defend his title in a return bout with Primo Carnera in New York, and that the respective winners, Sharkey and Schmeling, will meet in a Gotham arena for the third time, in September.

The fight fans may take these propositions or leave them alone but, at that, they are probably the best that can be developed in the current heavyweight circumstances.

Like Father.

Bowdoin College, rugged school in Maine, has many claims to distinction, the latest of which is the election of a former All-America halfback's son, Henry B. Hubbard, to the 1933 football captaincy. Like his father, John H. Hubbard, the son is also a halfback and a good one.

The elder Hubbard starred at Amherst and was picked by Walter Camp for his first All-America team in 1905. At Torrington, Conn., the family home, he is still sufficiently inclined toward athletics to be a member of the Y. M. C. A. volley ball team in the winter and play a good game of golf in the summer.

Miller Wins Title From Tommy Paul

Chicago, Jan. 14 (AP).—Freddie Miller, southpaw from Cincinnati, today had caught up with the will o' the wisp featherweight championship.

On his third try for the title—at least as far as the National Boxing Association is concerned—he collected himself after a bad start to take the crown from Tommy Paul of Buffalo, N. Y., by a decision victory in 10 rounds at the Chicago Stadium.

It was Paul's first battle in defense of the title he won in an N. B. A. tournament at Detroit last year, and for three rounds, he appeared thoroughly capable of hanging on to it.

In the fourth, however, Miller shifted to boxing. His jabbing right kept Paul busy, and a swinging left to head and body slowed the champion down. Paul rallied in the sixth, holding Miller even, but the Cincinnati youngster had too much left and was winning easily at the finish.

The decision of the two judges and the referee was close but unanimous.

Ben Jeby Stops Frank Battaglia

New York, Jan. 14 (AP).—Ben Jeby, East Side Hebrew, today held one leg on the disputed middleweight championship of the world.

Jeby stopped Frankie Battaglia of Winnipeg in the 12th round of a 15-round match in Madison Square Garden last night and earned official championship recognition from the New York State Athletic Commission. His title claim, however, is far from clear for Marcel Thil of France is recognized as 160-pound title-holder by the National Boxing Association.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago—Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, outpointed Tommy Paul, Buffalo, N. Y., (10), winning National Boxing Association recognition as world featherweight champion; James J. Braddock, Jersey City, outpointed Martin Levandowski, Grand Rapids, Mich., (10).

New York—Ben Jeby, New York, stopped Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Man., (12), and won New York recognition as world middleweight champion.

Clinton, Ia.—Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., knocked out Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., (4).

Maroon Defeats Saugerties Again

Zeek Stars in Kingston's 34-13 Victory Over Saugerties High—K. H. S. Seconds Defeat Saugerties Seconds in Preliminary, 31-10.

Kingston High turned back the varsity of Saugerties High again Friday night on the village school court, for a more overwhelming victory than the first, 34-13; so apparently a strange court doesn't bother Kingston.

Zeek, Kingston's left forward, played the first class basketball that he displayed last week, when he garnered 15 points. Last night, however, he fell three short with a total of 13. This lad with his uncanny sense for judging distance, along with Captain Rhymer, Evory, Debrosky and DeVeau, should go places in the DUSO League this winter.

As in the first game, Kingston took the lead, piling up a good one, and held it throughout the fray. Rhymer and Zeek tossed them in for the openers and Perks, Saugerties right forward, followed with a two pointer. He was the villagers' main cog, collecting 8 markers in the game.

At half time, Kingston had a 15-6 advantage. The scoring was as one sided in the second half as in the first with Kingston gathering 19 points to Saugerties' seven.

The preliminary was won by the Kingston Seconds from the Saugerties Seconds, 31-10. Kingston led at half time, 3-1.

Mother's Cook Book

FISH AND SHELL FISH

FISH and shell fish are two of our most extensive sources of food, and in some form are found in almost all parts of our country. Where it is possible to get the fresh fish, one may always feel sure of a delightful dish, and even canned fish and shell fish are to be prized.

Deviled Clams.

Take 25 fresh or canned clams. If fresh, chop the hard portions and cook slowly for ten minutes in three tablespoonfuls of butter and add one minced pepper and onion. Now add one-half pound of sliced mushrooms and cook three minutes. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of celery seed and four tablespoonfuls of flour. Cook until smooth, adding two cupfuls of milk very gradually. Now add the soft parts of the crabs or clams and pour into buttered ramekins. Cover with well-buttered crumbs and bake until brown.

Baked Fish With Potato Stuffing.

Pare and cook five medium-sized potatoes with one good-sized onion in boiling salted water until tender. When tender, remove the onion and mash, adding butter, cream or milk, and seasoning to taste. Prepare the fish and salt well on the inside before putting in the stuffing. Sew up and rub the fish well with flour, cut diagonal slashes on each side of the backbone and insert five narrow strips of salt pork. Dust with salt, pepper, and celery salt. Pour around the fish a can of condensed tomato soup, one tablespoonful of worcestershire sauce, one tablespoonful of catsup and one-third of a cupful of water. Bake until tender, serve garnished with sliced cooked eggs and the tomato sauce poured over all.

Any fresh fish stuffed and baked, if basted with a snappy french dressing, a bit of garlic or onion juice several times during the cooking, will be very much finer flavored.

WHY

Washington University Is Not to Change Name.

Washington university cannot change its name without endangering its tax-free status under its state charter, Joseph Zumbalen, treasurer of the university, said in an interview printed in Student Life, campus publication.

For this reason, the treasurer said, no step is likely to be taken toward changing the university's name. The present name, because of similarity to those of other institutions, is a recognized handicap. Suggestions have been made, since the recent death of Robert S. Brookings, chief builder of the university's present plant, that the institution be renamed in his honor.

Two steps would be necessary, Zumbalen said, to change the university's name. First, the members of the university corporation would have to approve the proposal, and second, the charter of the university would have to be taken to the legislature for amendment. This was done in 1857, when the name was changed from Eliot Seminary to Washington university.

Under its present charter, the university has tax-exemption, not only on its property actually used for school purposes, but on its real estate held for endowment income. An attempt was once made to collect taxes on the property not used for school purposes, but the Supreme court held that the charter was a contract, in which no change could be made without the university's consent.

Why Silver Is Good to Purify Drinking Water

Did you know that silver sterilizes water? Bacteriologists claim that as little as one gram of silver has the potential capacity of sterilizing 250,000 gallons of drinking water. The Commerce department reports that the sterilization of drinking water by a process utilizing silver has been attracting considerable attention in Germany. Last year a well-known German electrical firm placed on the market several types of household and travel sterilizing vessels for which an almost unlimited period of activity was claimed. No chemicals or parts have to be renewed even when used continuously, because they hold a sufficient charge of silver to last longer than the average life span. Apparatus was also developed for applying the process to the purification of city water supplies. The famous Swiss botanist Nageli was the first to notice that water kept in silver or copper vessels acquired germ-killing properties. That was in the '80s, but it was not until 1928 that a thorough study was made and a process for sterilizing water by means of silver was developed by Dr. Georg Krause, German engineer. However, don't think you can sterilize your drinking water by simply placing it in a silver pitcher. It takes months that way, while the new German process does it almost instantly.—Pathfinder.

Why Salt Makes Egg Beat Better

The effect produced by beating the white of an egg consists in beating air into it, producing small bubbles, which, on account of a high surface tension, gather and accumulate and do not break, thus forming the stiff froth of beaten egg. This is more or less characteristic of several known protein mixtures when they are beaten up in a similar way. The protein as it occurs in the white of an egg and as it occurs in most so-called protein solutions is in a colloidal form. Most proteins are soluble in rather dilute salt solutions. This solubility depends upon the fact that salt is an electrolyte. Sugar, on the other hand, is not an electrolyte. Consequently, adding a little salt to a protein system tends to increase its solubility, which would have the effect of increasing its surface tension, making the film more tough and elastic, while sugar, on the other hand, instead of increasing the solubility of a protein, would have a tendency to retard its solubility, although not actually causing the protein to precepitate, but would have the effect of rendering the film less cohesive and elastic.

Why "Seven Bells" Are Omitted

There are some interesting British traditions that are not applicable to our service and consequently have not been adopted by the United States navy. For example, many years ago there was a plot on foot in the British navy to mutiny and seize the ships from the officers. The signal for this mutiny was to be the striking of seven bells on the flagship. Through some means or other the authorities got wind of the threatened disturbance and seven bells were not struck. The mutiny failed because that signal was not given and since then seven bells in the dog watch have never been struck in the British navy. This custom is also folowed by many vessels of the British merchant marine.

Why Turkey's Capital Was Changed

The capital of Turkey was moved from Istanbul (Constantinople) to Ankara (Angora) when the Ottoman empire became a republic after the World war. Istanbul was considered too open for attack and too closely associated with foreign governments to remain the capital of the new Turkish republic. The Turkish Nationalist party, under the leadership of President Mustafa Kemal Pasha, wished to establish the capital in a location capable of strong defense and in the center of the Turkish nation.

ROBOTS NOW CARRY MAIL UNDERGROUND

Employed as Mailmen in New York Post Office.

New York.—Fifteen hundred robot mailmen went to work here for Uncle Sam. Unlike their brothers in flesh and blood these miniature robot couriers work underground whizzing up and down New York, across bridges, under streets, beneath skyscrapers, and with such precision and accuracy that they deliver every day in the neighborhood of 6,000,000 letters.

Few of the millions in New York are aware that these dynamic robot mailmen even exist, yet they have been hard at work for more than thirty years. And in all that time they have not lost so much as a single letter!

These latest additions to your Uncle Sam's post office are in the form of metal torpedoes shot by compressed air through cast-iron pipe at a high speed to more than fifty post office and sub post office stations in New York and Brooklyn.

Travel 30 Miles an Hour.

The carriers which resemble long, thin, milk cans, hold between five and six hundred letters apiece and are shot by compressed air at a speed of 30 miles per hour through tubes buried about 4 feet below the street surface. The tube lines consist of sections of cast-iron piping 8¼ inches inside diameter, joined together by bell and spigot joints.

Change of direction is accomplished by casting sections at true curvatures so that the containers can slide along without reduction in speed.

Compressed air exerting a force of approximately five pounds per square inch on the ends of the carriers is supplied by electrically driven fans or "blowers" in the basements of the post office. The air under pressure is conducted from the blowers into tanks and thence into the tubes.

Thirteen Seconds Apart.

Departure of the carriers from post offices along the tube line is regulated by an electrical device timed to release the containers at intervals of thirteen seconds. Sending and receiving conduits branch off from the main line at each station and are equipped with air valves to prevent undue escape of compressed air in their operation.

The pneumatic tubes are extremely economical in that the compressed air makes a continuous circuit of the system, very little ever being lost when the compressors are in operation. As the air is compressed at the last gate slowing up the tube on its entry into a post office, a mechanical airgate returns it to the main tube line to be used anew.

Experts Enjoy Finding Names for Dinosaurs

Billings, Mont.—Naming a dinosaur is more fun than picking out a name for a family's first-born as far as scientists in the Beauvais creek region, south of here, are concerned.

Such long names as hoplitosaurus, camptosaurus, sauropod, and tyranosaurus rex have a meaning all their own, taken from some of the things for which the Greeks had a name.

Hoplitosaurus, for instance, is a combination of the Greek term for a type of heavily armed soldier—hoplites—and saurus is Greek for lizardlike. Ergo, hoplitosaurus means a heavily armed, lizardlike animal. An almost perfect specimen, the first to be found, was dug up near Beauvais creek last summer by an American Museum of Natural History expedition.

Curator Barnum Brown of the museum, head of the Beauvais creek expedition, hailed the discovery of the hoplitosaurus as the most significant achievement of the fossil hunters this year.

Camptosaurus combines Greek words to describe a small dinosaur with a flexible neck. A herb eater, this species was identified by another nearly perfect skeleton found in 1931.

The sauropods include such gigantic dinosaurs as the brontosaurus, which had more brains in its back than in its head.

Tyranosaurus rex was the king of kings among dinosaurs, as his name indicates. Most vicious and rapacious of all the dinosaurs, he was equipped physically and mentally to be the biggest bully of a race of bullies.

Farm Life Keeps Pair "Too Busy to Quarrel"

Aurora, Ill.—Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt of Hinckley, Ill., who have not had a quarrel in 63 years of married life, "because we have been too occupied with problems of the farm," observed their anniversary recently with a family reception. The couple were married at Hinckley, in 1869, and each is eighty-three years of age.

They farmed continuously for 60 years, then retired and moved into the village.

"When you work hard and your mind is on your job, no matter what it is, you haven't got time for quarrels," Mrs. Schmidt said. With the couple at their anniversary celebration were seven children.

Kiwanis Installation Proved Huge Success

others, or it falls into the category of a "knife and fork club."

Mr. St. John reviewed some of the achievements of the club—the conduct of a Chatauqua course, the sponsoring and paying some $1,500 toward a camp site on the Wallkill for the Boy Scouts, the carrying on of Kiwanis Kapers to secure funds for the club's work for underprivileged children, the establishing of the McCullough fund to assist college students. He stated that in its work for the underprivileged child the club had last year furnished to children in the schools 20,000 half pints of milk and that one principal had told him that had it not been for milk furnished by the club it would not have been possible for some children to attend school. The particular pride and joy of the club was the model dental clinic which it conducted, presided over by Dr. Jones and which had taken care of several thousand cases without one cent of cost to the underprivileged child.

Attendance Appeal.

An appeal was made to members to keep up their attendance during the coming year and it was suggested that one possible activity might be a campaign to promote greater safety in traffic, the speaker reminding his hearers that over 35,000 people lost their lives last year in traffic accidents. Other possible worthwhile activities suggested were the construction of a swimming pool for children and the construction of the proposed public golf course.

The new president's "inaugural address" was followed by one of the most pleasing features of the evening, a cornet solo by Albert Rossi, who gave a fine exhibition of good tone work and triple-tonguing in his rendition of the "Honeysuckle Polka," with variations, responding to a hearty encore.

Frederick Snyder was presented, to introduce the guest speaker of the evening. Mr. Snyder spoke in his usual witty and entertaining manner and then introduced Harry N. Holmes, immediate past president of New York City Kiwanis Club, field secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship, student and world traveler.

Mr. Holmes brought to his audience the fruits of an experience that is truly world-wide. Born in Australia, but now a naturalized American citizen, he has been in many places and witnessed many events of world importance, 20 years of his life having been spent in different parts of the world in work associated with the Y. M. C. A. In 1915 he had charge of the work of that organization with the troops of General Botha and General Smuts in South Africa. For three and a half years, during the world war, he directed the work of the Y. M. C. A. among the British troops in France and Flanders. He has a widespread knowledge of the countries bordering on the Pacific, through which he traveled for six months in 1925, when he was a delegate to the first institute on Pacific relations, held in Honolulu.

Magnetic Speaker.

With the magnetic personality and great charm of manner, Mr. Holmes held the interested attention of all present for every minute of his compelling address, the effect of which was not lessened by frequent drafts on his inexhaustable fund of humor. In introducing his remarks Mr. Holmes said that one of the greatest difficulties he had encountered in becoming an American citizen was to acquire the American accent. He added that the American's peculiarities of speech were just as "funny" to the Britisher, quoting the remark of the latter that, "You can always tell an American—but you can't tell him much."

Referring to Kiwanis as a garden, the speaker took occasion to mention some of the famous gardens in history, starting with the Garden of Eden and including the famous hanging gardens of Babylon, the gardens at Versailles and others and ending with "the garden of cabbages and cauliflowers at Madison Square Garden." He reminded his hearers of the wide fellowship of which they were a part, speaking of the 1,800 Kiwanis Clubs of the United States and Canada and their total membership of nearly 100,000 men. He spoke of the need for perpetuation of the work of Kiwanis and asked its members to keep their belief in the vision of what Kiwanis men can do for the United States.

Mr. Holmes spoke of the present crisis in the history of the United States and of the world, but called attention to the fact that there had been other times in this country's and the world's history when it was believed that all was lost. He said that one thing was wanted in this time of test and misunderstanding—the supreme quality of courage—and he asked Kiwanians to take this to the country, to "take back to the people a belief, that the future of the flag is as bright as its history." The speaker asked his hearers to "help resist any mob hysteria." Said he, "the trouble is not that standards have been too high, but that too many of them were false."

"We are living less and less in geographical areas," said Mr. Holmes; "what is going on in China today is of interest to every person in this room. There is no such thing as prosperity in national compartments."

Pacific Relations

The concluding portion of the address was devoted to a brief discussion of the importance of the Pacific and relations with the countries that bordered on it; that world traffic was toward that portion of the world and that more ships went through the Panama canal than through the Suez canal. Said he, "The biggest thing in the world is the Pacific ocean. All the land in the world could be put into the Pacific and there would still remain a fringe of water." He noted that two-thirds of the population of the world lived around the fringe of the Pacific and the world owed much to the peoples of those countries, from whom had come, among other things, the seven great religions of the world.

His parting admonition to Kiwanis was to keep up the esprit de corps of the movement, to keep its spontaneity and enthusiasm and finally—"Keep the joy of living, don't worry too much about the troubles of the world."

Mr. Holmes' address was received with the hearty applause which it so richly deserved. At its conclusion the dining hall was cleared and members of Kiwanis and their guests enjoyed dancing to music of Zucca's orchestra.

Judge Hasbrouck Endorses Ball

G. D. B. Hasbrouck,
249 Fair Street,
Kingston, N. Y.
January 19, 1933.

Fred L. Van Deusen, Esq., President,
Kingston Shriners' Ass'n, 121 Pine Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Mr. President:

Out of a past so remote as may be described as misty has come an organization down through the years, with such puissance that it commands universal admiration and respect. The reason it has held a place in the hearts of men is not difficult to guess. It stands for the brotherhood of man. It unpretentiously and humbly is capable of the most disinterested acts of human helpfulness. Even here it does not choose some ancient guild or hospital for its beneficence. It chooses the youngest and most distinct eleemosynary institution of Kingston to help. It chooses to set the seal of its approval on that work—mothers' work for the motherless in our city. This year, as for more than two decades in the past it has sponsored a ball for the Industrial Home. It recognizes the demands of life by furnishing an occasion for the play and diversion of our people and turning the results of it into the help of the helpless, namely the Industrial Home.

The organization, as part of the great Masonic Order of our country, is entitled to great credit and commendation for its philanthropic work for the Industrial Home. So when you say to the city, "Come and dance with us," I for one cannot see how anyone can save his face and stay away.

I hope your ball will meet every expectation of your generosity and every need of the Industrial Home.

Sincerely yours,
G. D. B. HASBROUCK.

LIFE WORTH LIVING
With a Healthy Stomach

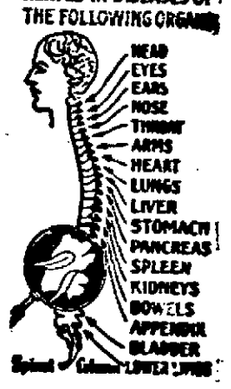

The man or woman with a good stomach is fortunate. When food can be enjoyed without discomfort or stomach pain, then life is worth living. Chronic indigestion, which keeps a man from normally satisfying his hunger, because of the fear of the pain and discomfort which will result, brings about malnutrition and a generally undernourished condition. Weakened in this way, the sufferer easily becomes a victim of more serious troubles.

When such a chronic indigestion occurs, there is a reason—a cause—and Chiropractic more definitely locates and corrects this cause than any other method of treatment.

STOMACH HEALTH IS RESTORED

"At the age of sixteen I went into a shop. The hard work and poor meals gave me a nervous stomach weakness. I suffered terribly for four years, paying specialists of all kinds for relief which never came. I had about given up hope when I began Chiropractic treatments. Today I am sound and well."
